<td>Massage Therapist/Athletic Trainer</td>
<td>The Massage Therapist/Athletic Trainer will perform daily massages and injury management for athletes. This position is requested in view of both the length of the Paralympic curling competition and the game schedule, in which the team plays multiple two-game days. The physical and emotional stress associated with the Paralympics will produce physiological factors which are counterproductive to achieving maximum performance. When these factors are coupled with other confounding medical variables generally shared by athletes with disabilities, the need for such a position is further emphasized.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Team Physician</td>
<td>The Team Physician is responsible for providing comprehensive acute and continuous medical care for athletes and should work collaboratively and in conjunction with the other medical professionals as part of a cohesive medical team. If an athlete becomes ill or injured, it is the team physician’s responsibility to evaluate, manage appropriate treatment plans, and, if needed, medically clear the athlete to compete again.</td>
