RACQUETBALL

AARA

IN REVIEW

August/September 1983

FERRIS, BAXTER WIN U.S. CROWNS

By Carole George

Over 750 of the top amateur players in the country converged at the Houston YMCA May 26-30 to do battle for 21 national titles. Danny Ferris of Minnesota and Cindy Baxter of Pennsylvania took top honors, but a good time was guaranteed for all.

Not only was there breathtaking action on the court, but off-court things were happening as well. Local football hero Earl Campbell showed up to sign autographs, challenge Ben Davidson to an exhibition match, and then tell the TV cameras how much he loves racquetball. Practically the entire entourage of tournament players and fans commuted to the Houston Astrodome for the basketball and baseball games, all compliments of the AARA and sponsors. And AARA members got to vote for next year's board members.

The volunteer staff at the "Y" did an excellent job of keeping things running smoothly—even with third place playoffs and consolation tournaments for the handicapped and wheelchair, all compliments of the AARA and sponsors. And AARA members got to vote for next year's board members.

The grandstands were packed for the Open Finals on Memorial Day. First Baxter's match against Malia Kamahoahoa, and then Ferris' match with Jimmy Kaslo, went to the tie-breaker to decide the title.

INSIDE

1983 Nationals

Page

1

State Directors

2

New Directions

3

1983 Intercollegiates

4

President's Column

5

National Doubles

6

Entry Form

7

Calendar

8

Baxter should have been beat by Monday. She hadn't known that the games would be to 21 points, plus a tie-breaker to 21. Baxter won the tie-breaker, 21-7, 11-2. Drexler had a chance to take Kamahoahoa to a tie-breaker in the semis after losing the first game 16-21, but then leading 18-16 in the second. However, Kamahoahoa seemed determined to win and took it in two. Baxter topped Mary Lynch for third, and joined Baxter and Kamahoahoa for a chance to play on the U.S. team in the Pan-American Games in Costa Rica this October.

While Baxter is well-known at AARA tournaments as the two-time Women's Pre-Veteran (25 plus) National Champion, Ferris had never competed in the AARA National title after playing just a few tournaments for the U.S. National team in the Summer Games in the summer of '81. The winner of the men's Open was relatively unknown. In the final round that Ferris played—all seven of them—he was treated like the underdog. But at the end of the game, Ferris was the Open Champion.

The volunteer staff from Cedar Park worked long and hard to make sure that the 1983 Nationals in Houston ran smoothly.

"Who is this kid?"

This year there were several new-before divisions: Men's and Women's Pre-Veterans (25 plus), Women's 50 plus, and Women's Wheelchair. Even in divisions where there were only a handful of players, there were medals for the top three places, and a larger draw the following year.

That's exactly what happened in the wheelchair division. Last year was the first time it was offered and all three entries went home as winners. This year 22 players entered the wheelchair division so that they could be separated into men's and women's. Most of the entries were locals who were recruited by Bob Kafka, the President of the Southwest Wheelchair Athletics Association. DP Leach sent the courts, and with some quick lessons the players were rolling-literally.

Not too many players can earn a national title after playing just a few months, but that's exactly what 14-year-old Stacie Norman did. She's a natural athlete who competes in track and field and in a men's wheelchair basketball league. For fun she skis, plays tennis, and now has added racquetball to her repertoire. Says her father, "Once we got her on the racquetball court we couldn't get her off."

While most of the men in the wheelchair division hadn't been playing any longer than Norman, the two finalists, Jim Leatherman and Tony Dean, have been playing for several years. They kept the competition from even scoring double figures, until their finals which seemed like a replay of last year. Leatherman retained his title with a 21-9, 21-11 victory.

"I think it'd be good experience for every player to try it in a chair one time," suggests Leatherman. He convinced Eric Foley, a top open player in his area, to enter both the wheelchair and open divisions of Maryland tournament. After losing to Leatherman, Foley said he actually thought it helped his stand-up game because he had to concentrate and anticipate better.

"Plus the chair is already low to the ground, so it's easier to hit a kill shot," says Leatherman. (Continued on page 2)

American Amateur Racquetball Association
817 North Weber, Suite 203
Colorado Springs, CO 80903

JANICE VOJAKA
820 CHERYL SUE
RIVERTON

NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
Libertyville, IL
Permit Number 104
rule, for wheelchair players allow two bounces between shots, but Leatherman has even won a U.S. class tournament with only one bounce. It's also exciting to see more older players every year. Even though the Golden Masters can't exactly enter the Opens on a national level, it's just so inspiring to see what terrific shape those players are in. John Pearce, 72, was the oldest player to enter, yet he plays racquetball and runs track and field between three and five hours a day, five times a week.

The older age divisions are also exciting to watch because of the experience and strategy exhibited. In the 50 plus the winner was Dr. Bud Muehlenheiser, who holds more national titles than any other racquetball player dead or alive. The runner-up in the 55 plus was Bud Held, the founder of Ektelon.

AARA

Racquetball in Review is the official publication of the American Amateur Racquetball Association.

Paul Hendrickson, Millbury, MA
President
Al Schuster, Pittsburgh, PA
Vice President
All Southeast, Covina, TN
Secretary-Treasurer
Jim Austin, Mission, TX
National Rule Commissioner
George Devor, Colorado Springs, CO
National Commissioner
Board of Directors:
Paul Hendrickson, Millbury, MA
Barb Smith, Boise, ID
Mimi Kelly-Burrill, MA
Al Seidman, Elmwood, NY
Van Dobbsky, Chelsea, MA
Jim Austin, Mission, TX
Robert W. Knecht, 1969-1971
Devitt Slay, 1972-1976
R. B. Tinker, 1976-1978
Kathy Carlisle, 1980-1982
Luke S. Onge, Executive Director
Mary Ellen Fish, Executive Secretary

Time Out For Thanks

After every "Nationals" we print a side bar thanking those individuals who made it happen. The Houston Nationals was no ordinary "Nationals," but one that will serve as the blueprint for those to come. Four major forces came together in a spirit of togetherness and cooperation to show that racquetball has truly arrived as a major sport in the United States.

First, there was the Houston Organizing Committee headed by Dick Binker and John Watson. To name each of their committee heads, not to mention the committee members, would fill pages. It's sufficient to say that they were the most professional staff we have ever worked for. In addition, each one has made a major contribution to the sport of racquetball and to the spirit of amateurism. The YMCA Staff, composed of Rod Brown, Executive Director, Jim Ferber, Associate Executive Director, and Jerry Sampson, Program Director, literally opened their doors.

If your answer to any of the above is "yes" then you should subscribe to Racquetball!...The Authoritative Voice of Racquetball

16 instructional pages in each issue...New products...Interesting features...Exciting tournament results...Pro and amateur developments...Health tips...Player certified...Upcoming events...Player opportunities...

Your magazine will arrive shortly, Watch for it...
Racquetball In Review

Why You Should Be a Member of the American Amateur Racquetball Association!

Over 800 tournaments annually — Ranked nationally with all AARA players — Uniform rule book — Recognized amateur governing body.

STATE/REGIONAL and NATIONAL NEWS -

THREE CANDIDATES ELECTED TO BOARD: Three out of five outstanding candidates were elected to the A.A.R.R.A. Board of Directors for three-year terms. With the constitutional changes made last year a current Board Member is permitted to succeed himself/herself for a single term. Incumbent President Paul Heinrich of Massachusetts was elected for a second term and will continue to serve as National Rules Commissioner. Clint Koble of Gillette, Wyoming was awarded the third position over Jon Denley of New Jersey and Kirk Howe of California.

AL SEITELMAN WINS JOHN HALVERSON AWARD: Al Seitelman of East Norwalk, New York received the John Halverson Award which is given every year to the individual in the United States who has contributed the most to the sport of racquetball. "Big Al's" credentials go on and on, but just for starters, Al is Region II Director, National Commissioner for New York, Region II Junior Director and serves on the A.A.R.R.A. Board of Directors as Vice President.

TO JOIN AARA MAIL THIS COUPON!

YES! I would like to be a member of the AARA, eligible for tournament play. Please send me the membership kit, which includes — the membership card, official rule book and discount coupons worth $20. I am enclosing $36 on one year.

Name __________________________
Address _______________________
City ___________________ State _______ Zip ___________

Mail to: American Amateur Racquetball Association

RIS North West, Suite 203
Colorado Springs, CO 80925

AARA Membership by State

Top ten states —

CA, NY, MA, PA, FL, NJ, CT, MI, CO, IN
The sport of racquetball is maturing. We have gone through the painful growing years of the late 70's and early 80's and have entered an era of stabilization and positive direction for the sport.

Nothing could exemplify this maturation process more than the U.S. Intercollegiate Championships and the U.S. National Singles Championships. The Intercollegiates, sporting over 200 entries from 40 universities, and the National Singles, featuring 750 entries (500 individuals), were historic events in and of themselves. Anyone who attended either of these events realized the electrifying atmosphere generated toward our sport.

It is further gratifying to know that our major sponsors—Lite Beer from Miller, DP Leach, and Penn Athletic Products Co.—are making long-term commitments toward the sport, not one-year-wait-and-see decisions that have been so prevalent in the past.

I don't mean to imply that there aren't rough roads ahead for us, but I definitely feel that the sport has turned the corner and has a bright and exciting future.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find the report to the membership by the A.A.A.A. Board, fall report on the Intercollegiate Championships, and the U.S. National Account.

We would like to welcome Hugh Morgan, Publisher of National Racquetball Magazine, as the publisher of "A.A.A.A. Racquetball in Review". With Hugh's expertise in publishing we look forward to a rapid growth of "A.A.A.A. Racquetball in Review".

Be sure to put the National Doubles on your agenda: Tyrone Racquetball Club, St. Petersburg, FL - October 27-20, 1983. See you there.

Regards,
Luke St. Onge
Executive Director

John M. Wilson has been named Vice President-Marketing of Penn Athletic Products Company, an operating unit of The General Tire & Rubber Company and the nation's largest manufacturer of tennis balls and racquetballs.

Wilson, who will be based at Penn headquarters in Monroeville, Pa., formerly was associated with Fox-Stanley Photo Products, Inc. of San Antonio, Texas, as President of the Special Marketing Division.

He has also held marketing positions with AMF Harley-Davidson and General Foods.

A native of Norwalk, Conn., Wilson was graduated from Brown University. He is a member of the American Marketing Association, Direct Mail Marketing Association and the Tennis Manufacturers Association.

DP has discontinued its long-standing relationship with Marty Hogan, according to Jimmy Thompson, Vice President-Sales and Marketing at DP. Hogan is one of the premier players in professional racquetball.

Mr. Thompson explained that DP's approach to promoting racquetball has changed considerably during the past year as the company became more involved in supporting amateur racquetball events at the "grass roots" level, sponsoring more amateur and professional tournaments, and sponsoring additional players. "Although we had worked to develop a mutually beneficial long term arrangement with Marty for the past year, an agreement couldn't be reached," explained Thompson. "Certainly we are disappointed that Marty will no longer be associated with the DP Leach Line of Racquetball, but we wish him well in his future endeavors. DP's commitment to promoting consumer interest in racquetball remains firm and we feel that our direction is extremely positive and for the betterment of the sport and DP," stated Thompson.

DP, based in Opelika, AL, is one of the largest manufacturers of sporting goods and recreational products in the world.
MEMPHIS STATE TIGERS DEVOUR THE PACK

By Carole George

Memphis State University made it seven straight national titles April 10 in the AARA Intercollegiate Championships held at the Racquet Club in Memphis, TN. The Tigers brought home five out of a possible six gold medals and two silver medals to rack up 96 team points. In second place was University of Illinois with a mere 17 points, and third went to Cortland, NY with nine.

The awesome racquetball team may be Memphis State's best kept secret and according to Coach Larry Liles, "Our team is known better outside of the state than inside Tennessee." However, Mark Hayden, the sports editor of the school paper, seemed quite impressed. He stated in his opening paragraph of an article dated April 12, that Coach Liles already knew that he had the best men's and women's players as well as the best overall team: "But, they still held a championship to see if things had changed. It turned out to be a waste of time, though."

For the more than 200 entrants in this year's 11th Annual Intercollegiate Championships, it was hardly a waste of time. There were consolation round in each of the six divisions to assure that everyone got to play at least two matches. There was a big banquet Saturday night, complete with hundreds of raffle prizes. Players were able to meet other players from all over the country. The tournament committee housed the players with local families.

Lite Beer from Miller put up $6,000 in prize money at the AARA Intercollegiates held in Memphis. Each winner received $500 in scholarship money.

Green, and John and Keith Dunlap, Jack Newman's name will now be added to their hall of fame. Although not nearly as famous, Kathy Gluvna, a freshman in commercial arts at MSU, is on her way up. She had a tough semi-finals match, winning 12-21, 21-17, 11-10 against Carole George (University of California at Santa Cruz). Afterwards she did a lot of praying and "asked God for patience and confidence and concentration. I knew believing in Him comforted me. It helped me to play the game I knew I could play."

On the final day of the tournament, Larry Liles took care of Mo Nard from Sacramento State, CA 21-28, 21-11. In the Men's No.2 Singles division, Memphis State was even more dominating, with two teammates meeting in the finals. Richard Smith, who Liles described as "possibly the most improved player on the team," hadn't improved enough to overtake fellow Tiger, Brian Dieghan. Dieghan looked strong and confident as he won 21-7, 21-8.

Colleen Brint (MSU) played No.2 singles in Memphis, but could have just as easily played No.1 for most other schools. No one was able to take a game off of her as she plowed her way to the finals, beating former teammate Beverly Bell who now plays for Florida. Brint won the $650 easily enough, 21-7, 21-5.

Santa Fe College, FL was the only school except you-know-who, to take home a gold medal. Top-seeded Tim Hansen and Bubba Gautier took out MSU's second string team of Peter Wong/Keith Blackmon 21-5, 21-9 in the semifinals. Then in the finals Hansen/Gautier took care of Mo Nard from Nebraska 21-11.

Memphis State also has one of the best racquetball facilities of most colleges, with 18 courts, one of which has side glass walls with stadium seating. The William Tan-queerball in Memphis, complete with hundreds of raffle prizes. Players were able to meet other players from all over the country. The tournament committee housed the players with local families.

Lite Beer from Miller put up the $6,000 in scholarship prize money, so that each winner, whether men's, women's, singles or doubles, would receive $500. The runners-up received $300 and third place was worth $200.

Memphis State made off with more than its share of the wealth. Even though there were 44 universities represented in the championships, MSU players were awarded just about half of the prize money. Only six schools brought complete teams-four men and four women-while MSU had two men's teams and one woman's. Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in NY brought 22 players in a fleet of cars, travelling 3,000 miles round trip. A handful of players from California flew in at their own expense, representing themselves, more than their universities.

Even though intercollegiate racquetball has a long way to go before it catches up with intercollegiate tennis, there is now one player who is going to school on a fully paid racquetball scholarship. That player is Jack Newman, current AARA National Champion, two-time intercollegiate tennis champion, and number one on the American team in international competition. Newman, who is sophomore at MSU, received $12,000 from Coca-Cola and William B. Tanner, former president of the International Racquetball Association (now the AARA).

Newman and his teammates receive warm-ups, tournament entry fees, travel expenses, some equipment sponsorships, and national notoriety. Coach Liles receives $13,000 a year for his team out of MSU's athletics budget, but raises another $35,000 from tournaments, local donations, and other fund raisers. By next year he hopes racquetball can go so far which will make them eligible for more school funds.

Without a doubt, Memphis State's best kept secret is Jack Newman. The expression of the local families who will make them eligible for more school funds.

Memphis State also has one of the best racquetball facilities of most colleges, with 18 courts, one of which has side glass walls with stadium seating. The William Tan-queerball in Memphis, complete with hundreds of raffle prizes. Players were able to meet other players from all over the country. The tournament committee housed the players with local families.

Lite Beer from Miller put up the $6,000 in scholarship prize money, so that each winner, whether men's, women's, singles or doubles, would receive $500. The runners-up received $300 and third place was worth $200.

Memphis State made off with more than its share of the wealth. Even though there were 44 universities represented in the championships, MSU players were awarded just about half of the prize money. Only six schools brought complete teams-four men and four women-while MSU had two men's teams and one woman's. Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in NY brought 22 players in a fleet of cars, travelling 3,000 miles round trip. A handful of players from California flew in at their own expense, representing themselves, more than their universities.

Even though intercollegiate racquetball has a long way to go before it catches up with intercollegiate tennis, there is now one player who is going to school on a fully paid racquetball scholarship. That player is Jack Newman, current AARA National Champion, two-time intercollegiate tennis champion, and number one on the American team in international competition. Newman, who is sophomore at MSU, received $12,000 from Coca-Cola and William B. Tanner, former president of the International Racquetball Association (now the AARA).

Newman and his teammates receive warm-ups, tournament entry fees, travel expenses, some equipment sponsorships, and national notoriety. Coach Liles receives $13,000 a year for his team out of MSU's athletics budget, but raises another $35,000 from tournaments, local donations, and other fund raisers. By next year he hopes racquetball can go so far which will make them eligible for more school funds.

Memphis State also has one of the best racquetball facilities of most colleges, with 18 courts, one of which has side glass walls with stadium seating. The William Tan-queerball in Memphis, complete with hundreds of raffle prizes. Players were able to meet other players from all over the country. The tournament committee housed the players with local families.

Lite Beer from Miller put up the $6,000 in scholarship prize money, so that each winner, whether men's, women's, singles or doubles, would receive $500. The runners-up received $300 and third place was worth $200.

Memphis State made off with more than its share of the wealth. Even though there were 44 universities represented in the championships, MSU players were awarded just about half of the prize money. Only six schools brought complete teams-four men and four women-while MSU had two men's teams and one woman's. Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in NY brought 22 players in a fleet of cars, travelling 3,000 miles round trip. A handful of players from California flew in at their own expense, representing themselves, more than their universities.

Even though intercollegiate racquetball has a long way to go before it catches up with intercollegiate tennis, there is now one player who is going to school on a fully paid racquetball scholarship. That player is Jack Newman, current AARA National Champion, two-time intercollegiate tennis champion, and number one on the American team in international competition. Newman, who is sophomore at MSU, received $12,000 from Coca-Cola and William B. Tanner, former president of the International Racquetball Association (now the AARA).

Newman and his teammates receive warm-ups, tournament entry fees, travel expenses, some equipment sponsorships, and national notoriety. Coach Liles receives $13,000 a year for his team out of MSU's athletics budget, but raises another $35,000 from tournaments, local donations, and other fund raisers. By next year he hopes racquetball can go so far which will make them eligible for more school funds.

Memphis State also has one of the best racquetball facilities of most colleges, with 18 courts, one of which has side glass walls with stadium seating. The William Tan-queerball in Memphis, complete with hundreds of raffle prizes. Players were able to meet other players from all over the country. The tournament committee housed the players with local families.

Lite Beer from Miller put up the $6,000 in scholarship prize money, so that each winner, whether men's, women's, singles or doubles, would receive $500. The runners-up received $300 and third place was worth $200.
The Blitz Racquet conforms to AARA specs: it is 13 1/4 inches from the top of the handle to the outside top of the frame; 7 1/4 inches at the widest and 19 1/2 inches long. In fact, the BLITZ Racquet is really the logical expression of AARA new specifications.

The frame is a solid filament composition. Since it is not hollow (foam-core), it is stronger, yet lighter and more aerodynamic than any other racquet. This aerodynamic cross section combines with the wide string spacing (.5/8ths-inch centers) to greatly reduce wind resistance, giving you incredibly quick response.

The "Radial" pattern of the main strings act like an extension of your own arm. The unusually long strings, plus frame shape and physical properties of the composite, maximize the percentage of energy transferred to the ball. You get explosive returns, whether you are a 95 pound woman or a 225 pound man.

Since the stringed area extends all the way to your fingertips, the "sweet spot", or consistent playing surface is some 12 inches by 8 1/2 inches, over 50% than any other racquet. This combines with the 19 1/2 inch length and light weight, to give you extended range - from returning "body shots" to retrieving "passing shots" that used to get by.

A BLITZ Racquet also has unique "feel" or "touch" so you make better kill shots. You can wait an additional fraction of a second before committing to the kind of return you make, which really confuses your opponent.

Finally, the handle of the BLITZ Racquet incorporates radical improvements. Shaped somewhat oval in cross-section, it conforms comfortably to your clenched hand. This gives you instinctive knowledge of how the racquet is "faced" at all times, improving accuracy. The soft, comfortable grip eliminates essentially all vibrations that tire your hand and forearm, yet provide sure gripping, even when wet.

The BLITZ Racquet is priced at $75, including California Sales Tax when applicable and shipping within the continental United States. This is less than other premium racquets, even though the BLITZ Racquet is far better constructed and "beats the socks off the competition". You will find opponents that you once played "scratch' with, now require from 5 to 10 points handicap, for an even match. Buyers should mail their check for $75 to BLITZ Racquets, P.O. Box 8214, San Mateo, California 94403, or call (415)546-7200.

President's Column
By Paul Hendrickson

Recently I was honored to be re-elected to a three-year term on the National Board of Directors of the AARA, at the 1983 AARA National Singles held at the Downtown YMCA in Houston, Texas.

I feel my re-election was a vote of confidence on the direction the AARA has taken while I have been serving as president. I will continue to stress the development of strong, state, associations, and benefits to the membership as I have over the past three years.

I will continue to stress the involvement of all the members of the AARA in the growth and direction in which the AARA is to proceed in the next three years. In that light, I am pleased to announce that as of the next election of board members all the membership of the AARA (for the first time) will be allowed to vote for their choice through a printed ballot to be mailed out in advance of the election in May.

We have also, for the first time, scheduled one board meeting a year to be held at the national headquarters in Colorado Springs instead of being held in conjunction with the national doubles championships. This will allow board members to attend the meeting without being concerned with tournament management or playing at the time of the meetings.

In addition to myself, I am pleased to announce that Jim Austin, of Houston, Texas, was re-elected to a three-year term and will continue to serve as National Rules Commissioner. Also elected, and serving for the first time on the National Board will be Clint Kobe of Wyoming.

I am looking ahead with great anticipation to the next three years of my term. Being a part of the administrative development of our sport is a challenging, but rewarding position. I continue to offer my services to members, and am interested in any problems or suggestions that concern our association.
Racquetball in Review

CALENDAR

SEPTEMBER 6-10

SEPTEMBER 9-11
Bellevue Open (3)
Bellevue Racquetball Club
Bellevue, Washington
Sid Williams
5277 Puget Sound Ave
Tacoma, WA 98409
206-473-2266

Third Annual Pepper/Easter Seals Courthouse Classic (3)
The Courhouse
300 Goucher St.
Johnstown, PA 15905
Bob Thomas
814-268-6969

SEPTEMBER 16-18
March Of Dimes Scramble (3)
The Racquet Club of Meadville
Corner of French and Poplar Sts.
Meadville, PA 16335
Nancy Manning
814-724-3524

3rd Annual Kettering Klassic (3)
Suburban Athletic Club
5600 Kettering Dr.
Kettering, OH 45440
513-435-3113

SEPTEMBER 16-20
4th Annual Camelot Music Classic (Open)
Supreme Court
4633 Trousdale Dr.
Nashville, TN 37204
615-632-7528

RULES:
AARA Official rules will apply. Only amateurs may participate. AARA rules state the definition of an amateur racquetball player as any player (male, female, or junior) who has not accepted prize money, regardless of the amount, in any PRO SANCTIONED tournament (NRC, WPRA, Catalina, or any other association so deemed by the AARA Board of Directors). ALL PARTICIPANTS MUST SHOW CURRENT AARA MEMBERSHIP CARD or purchase membership at time of registration.

TOURNOI門 BALL:
Penn Ultra Blue

HOSPITALITY:
Hospitality will be provided throughout the entire tournament. Saturday evening with cash bar and dinner to follow. Free to all PLAYERS; nominal fee for guests.

AWARDS:
Given for first, second, third, fourth, and consolation. For seeding purposes, please send record of past accomplishments. B-Non-championship will receive plaques.

NOTE: All players and staff must be members of the U.S. National Team.

DEFINITION OF AMATEUR: As applies to AARA rules - AARA rules state the definition of an amateur racquetball player as any player (male, female, or junior) who has not accepted prize money, regardless of the amount, in any PRO SANCTIONED tournament (NRC, WPRA, Catalina, or any other association so deemed by the AARA Board of Directors).

Please enter me in the event(s) checked below. Players may enter two events.

MEN’S DIVISION

- Open
- Jr. Vets - 25+
- Seniors 30+
- Seniors 35+
- Seniors 40+
- Masters 45+
- Masters 50+
- Golden Masters 55+
- Golden Masters 60+
- Golden Masters 65+
- B (non-championship event)

WOMEN’S DIVISION

- Open
- Jr. Vets - 25+
- Seniors 30+
- Seniors 35+
- Seniors 40+
- Masters 45+
- Masters 50+
- Golden Masters 55+
- Golden Masters 60+
- Golden Masters 65+
- B (non-championship event)

1ST EVENT ENTERED AND PARTNER
2ND EVENT ENTERED AND PARTNER

YOUR NAME ____________________ AGE: ______

ADDRESS ____________________ CITY ______ STATE ______ ZIP ______

BUSINESS PHONE (_____) HOME PHONE (_____

Waiver: I hereby for myself, my heirs, executors, and administrators, waive and release any and all rights and claims I might have against the American Amateur Racquetball Association, Tyrone Racquetball Club, Lite Beer, Penn Athletics, D.P. Leach, Pro’s, or their representative agents, for any and all injuries.

DATE ______ SIGNATURE (Parent's signature if participant is a minor)

MAKE CHECKS TO: AARA NATIONAL DOUBLES
MAIL TO: AARA NATIONAL DOUBLES
815 N. Weber
Colorado Springs, Colorado 80903

ENTRY FEE: $30.00 first event
$15.00 second event
Players may enter two events

FORM IS NOT COMPLETE NOR IS ENTRY ACCEPTED UNLESS CHECK FOR CORRECT AMOUNT IS ENCLOSED.

SEPTEMBER 30-OCTOBER 1

Time out for Thanks

(Continued from page 3)

- Summer Madness
  - Bremerton Racquetball Club
  - Bremerton, Washington
  - Contact: Sid Williams
  - 5277 Puget Sound Ave.
  - Tacoma, WA 98409
  - 206-473-2266

- Derby Queen
  - Racquetball Plus
  - PO Box 227
  - Burlingame Ave.
  - Derby, CT 06419

- Dennis Wood
  - 203-726-5288

The volunteer group from Centilor worked long hours under the guidance of Pat Gerity, Floor Manager, and made certain that all matters were handled on time and that registration ran smoothly. We really appreciated their hard work.

- Also, we thank the Whitehall Hotel for making us all feel at home away from home.

- It often seems obligatory to express appreciation to the sponsors of an event such as the Houston Nationals. Honestly, without them our sport would only be a shadow of what it is today. Our two major industry sponsors, Penn Athletic Products Company and D.P. Leach, are the only companies who have made a total commitment to amateur racquetball in the United States. They have spent literally thousands of dollars to see our sport grow, and much of this money has been spent in areas with little return. They deserve and have earned your respect and patronage.

- Lite Beer from Miller is the only company outside of the racquetball industry who has made a long-term commitment to our sport. The dollars that Lite invests are significant, but it is Lite’s logistics and planning that are its real contributions. In Houston five local distributors were involved, along with a full complement of corporate staff. Lite leaves no stone unturned as it works entirely to give the Nationals full media coverage. Judy Puma of the Ketchum Agency worked tirelessly under the watchful eyes of Steve Forsyth, Public Relations Specialist, Lite Beer from Miller. All media, both national and local, were focused on the Ben Davidson, Lite Beer from Miller Celebrity, and Earl Campbell, Houston Oilers, challenge match. Lynne Heintz, Young Adult Project Coordinator for Lite, was on hand throughout the Nationals, lending her expertise and support to the event.

- It has been a pleasure to work with such good people as those from Lite, Penn and D.P. Leach over the years and with their continued support the sport is in good hands. Last, but not least, were the 550 plus athletes who are most deserving of applause and who spent thousands of dollars in order to come to Houston and participate in the Nationals. It was truly a “happening” and anyone who was there can sincerely say that the future of our great sport is just beginning. Thanks to everyone who made it happen.
We’re Supporting You!

We are the Official Racquet Sponsor of the 1983 U.S. Racquetball Team and a major sponsor of every AARA Regional and National event.

DP Leach...the Team that supports You.