US Speedskating Announces 2016-17 World Junior Short Track Championships Team

KEARNS, Utah – US Speedskating announced the 2016-17 World Junior Short Track Championships Team that will compete in Innsbruck, Austria from January 27-29, 2017. Team USA will send eight skaters – four men and four women – to compete in the three-day competition.

The same four skaters that were sent to the 2015-16 World Junior Championships in Sofia, Bulgaria will represent the women. Leading them will be U.S. Short Track Junior Champion Gabriella Hachem (North Potomac, Md.). Joining her is 2015-16 U.S. Short Track Junior Champion Maame Biney (Reston, Va.), Inline Junior World Champion Franchesca Bell (Orlando, Fla.) and three-time World Junior Championships team member April Shin (Rockville, Md.).

“I love the group of girls that I get to go to World Junior Championships with,” said Hachem. “This is the same group that we had last year and we are all even stronger than we were in 2015-16.”

Brandon Kim (Fairfax, Va.), the winner of the men’s overall title at the U.S. Short Track Junior Championships, will be making his first appearance on the World Junior Championship Team. Kim will be joined by newcomer Aaron Heo (Warrington, Pa.), 2015-16 World Junior Championships team member Benjamin Thornock (Salt Lake City, Utah) and current 2016-17 ISU World Cup Fall team member Thomas Hong (Laurel, Md.).

Utah Olympic Oval FAST team short track coach, Lin Lin Sun, leads the team and will be assisted by Academy of Skating Excellence (ASE) short track coach Hongyang Wang.
