Q: What could be better than Liquidmetal?  A: MORE OF IT!

HEAD has expanded Liquidmetal technology to seven key locations of the racquet taking Pure Energy & Perfect Power to the next level.

And, if that's not enough power for you, add HEAD's new revolutionary Inner Grommet System (IGS) and you have a racquet so powerful it should be illegal.

HEAD has created the ultimate racquetball racquet featuring the only Inner Grommet System technology. The result is:

29% More Power than Titanium

Racquets made with conventional material deform on ball impact, resulting in energy loss. This means less power is available for your return. Liquidmetal's unique "liquid" atomic structure does not deform on impact. This racquet utilizes all the energy your swing generates for a return shot with pure energy and perfect power. How perfect? Test results show Liquidmetal delivers 29% more power than Titanium.

Increased Power by up to 21%*

Solid frame construction provides optimal stiffness for maximum power and feel. HEAD ENERGY provides an explosive string bed response on every shot.

Increased Durability

Frame integrity is maximized by eliminating exterior grommet holes.

Built-in Vibration dampening

HEAD ENERGY offers the additional benefit of absorbing unwanted vibration for maximum comfort.

It’s become obvious that racquetball player demographics have changed—currently over 75% of our members are 35+ years of age. We need to attract younger players to the game!

Two states in the U.S. have distinguished themselves through development of successful junior racquetball programs—Missouri and Oregon—and a few areas have built successful collegiate programs: Texas, Utah and the East Coast.

The key to success for all these programs lies with dedicated volunteers, but you may be surprised to hear that most of these programs were initiated by one, yes one, person who wanted to see junior racquetball succeed.

At first glance, you may look at a program of the magnitude of the Junior Oregon group and believe there’s no way to develop such a program in your area.

Wrong! The Oregon program was initiated by one dedicated volunteer, Gary Kerwood, who went from school to school and club to club to get the program off the ground. He recruited other volunteers to help and eventually the initiative developed to where it is today. Similar stories of one individual leading the crusade for junior racquetball have surfaced in Missouri, Texas and Utah. We need dedicated individuals such as these in every state!

Different areas have different needs. For example, Missouri has a successful private school league while the Oregon High School league is based mainly in the public schools. These various recipes for success are available for anyone to follow. Interested volunteers should contact USA Racquetball for further information. The future of our sport requires an active junior program, so get involved and help grow junior programs within your state!
Penn revolutionizes racquetballs once again with the introduction of new Pro Penn High Definition (HD). Penn high-performance engineers joined forces with the top professional players in the world on the IRT to develop the ultimate racquetball. Better visibility, more speed, lighter weight and softer feel were the results of this collaborative effort. So go ahead, try the new Pro Penn HD and... See the ball!

WHAT IS USA RACQUETBALL?

After serving on the USA Racquetball Board of Directors for three years now, I sometimes wonder if we are doing our job properly when people come up to me and ask, “Just exactly what does this association do?” I field questions ranging from: what are the areas we promote? … who “owns” the largest tournaments? … how much money does the association pay me for being on the Board? In this article I will outline just exactly who we are and what we do. In order to continuously improve as an association, we must be well-defined and understood by our own members.

USA Racquetball, a membership-based association, is the only official National Governing Body (NGB) for racquetball. Created by an act of Congress, we fall under the umbrella of the United States Olympic Committee (USOC). Many of our policies and guidelines are set by the USOC and we are duty-bound to follow them as an NGB. These include guidelines concerning memberships; national team members; international issues; insurance; the Board of Directors; arbitration issues; and promotion of our sport. Currently there are 47 other NGB’s ranging from karate to swimming, baseball to bowling, etc.

Our USA Racquetball mission statement commits service to our members and to the promotion of racquetball. Currently we have over 14,000 full members and we sanction over 500 tournaments annually across the U.S. We host the largest tournaments in racquetball each year at different locations around the country. Our goal is to develop and promote all groups of competitive racquetball from juniors to seniors and everyone in between.

USA Racquetball headquarters is located in Colorado Springs and is staffed by a team of eight salaried individuals. Our Board of Directors guides the association and sets and monitors policy along with overseeing all facets of the organization. The Board charters numerous committees to evaluate and work in areas beneficial to our sport. These committees are staffed both with board members and non-board members. No board member earns a salary from the association and he/she must not have any conflicts of interest on voting issues.

Our organization is supported by a network of state associations. These state associations organize, run and/or monitor the tournaments and events within their respective states. We work closely with the states on memberships, tournaments, policies, monies, sanctioning, insurance and many other areas. The states are the lifeblood of our association because this is where our membership base is realized.

Corporate sponsors are important to our sport as well. They understand the need to promote racquetball and support our association. The monies, product and services they provide go directly back into supporting our sport. Many of these sponsors have stood by us for decades; without them, there would be no USA Racquetball.

We promote junior players with our Junior Council, U.S. Junior Olympics, National Intercollegiate and National High School Championships tournaments. I myself started as a junior player many years ago in a program begun by our state association. In addition to our Juniors initiatives, we support many different groups of people who have developed their own associations. As an example, the National Masters Association says that the liability insurance we supply them is crucial to their existence.

Our National Rules Commissioner provides a very important function — he maintains the rules and facilitates necessary adjustments on occasion. We promote referring skills, teaching skills and camps for our young players. We now have online memberships, a tournament management system and a new ability-based ranking system that will continue to evolve. We have a shipping department that ships needed materials to each tournament for their use. And, we have a U.S. National Team with coaches for both adults and juniors. Last but not least, USA Racquetball runs several national tournaments annually, including the U.S. Open, National Singles and National Doubles.

As I write this article, I am reminded again of the immense scope of our association. Take a look at the magazine that carries this article: the work and effort our magazine requires is incredible. This bi-monthly magazine is the conduit for our racquetball partners to get their messages out and communicate to our members. From the many facets of our sport, including both the men’s and women’s pro tours, outdoor racquetball, seniors events, legends events, the international scene and local tournaments, the magazine is the way we all stay current. If it weren’t for the magazine, it would be tough to follow our top players!

As our sport keeps changing, we will also evolve. We are revising our membership structure to keep up with times. A new e-membership and club membership has been approved. Our web site presence is professional and contains a huge amount of information; it is another focal point of our association. Our tournaments are bigger than ever and new grand prix events are in the works. New mega-centers for racquetball are in the planning stages. Corporate sponsors outside our industry are coming aboard in a big way, seeing value for their marketing dollars. Hey, did you know that racquetball participation was up 13 percent in 2004? This is great news for racquetball and I believe there will be much more to come!

In this article I’ve described some of the areas your association impacts every day in the promotion of racquetball. To me, it’s just mind boggling how much USA Racquetball does every day for our sport. Hopefully, as you’ve read this you’ve gained new appreciation for the scope of work and the efforts of those toiling behind the scenes.

I couldn’t end this article without recognizing the many, many volunteers. Literally, there are hundreds of people who give their time in support of USA Racquetball; some have been doing so for decades. We need more people like them! Please look up your local state organization and get involved. And please don’t forget, this association needs donations from our members in order to operate. The yearly membership fee doesn’t completely provide the resources for us to do everything we want to do for racquetball, so please join in and give to USA Racquetball as you’re able. Over the past three years, we’ve made huge strides for this great sport and with your help, it will continue!

All the best to you in ’06!

THE NAME OF THE GAME™ WILSON.COM ©2005 WILSON SPORTING GOODS CO.
A tenth anniversary is reason to celebrate for many different occasions. Ten years in a marriage shows signs of solidity and lasting commitment. The ten-year high school reunion gives us a chance to see old friends and see how our life stacks up against theirs. The tenth birthday means you are now permanently in the double digits for age, and blowing all the candles out on the birthday cakes gets tougher from here on out.

The 2005 Choice Hotels US OPEN Racquetball Championships celebrated its tenth anniversary this season in Memphis -- the event's home since its beginning in 1996. Much can be celebrated about the event's growth over the past decade, and memories from each year will never be forgotten, but the 2005 US OPEN will top them all. From the first round of qualifying on Wednesday to the finals on Sunday, the 2005 US OPEN brought us some the best racquetball that has been played in the history of the sport, ever!
The quarterfinals of the 2005 US OPEN produced four thrilling matches. Tilton, who also took out one of the event's top seeds. This time it was Vanderson found his groove in the third, going up 10-0 before eventually returning to the radio booth with a loss to No. 7 Shane Vanderson. Unfortunately, neither Clouse or Tilton could win their evening matches to advance to the quarterfinals. Clouse fell to No. 4 Jason Mannino and Tilton, who also took out one of the event's top seeds. This time it was No. 10 Kyle Veenstra, also falling in five games 11-7, 6-11, 3-11, 11-6, 11-4.

Unfortunatley, neither Clouse or Tilton could win their evening matches to advance to the quarterfinals. Clouse fell to No. 4 Jason Mannino and Tilton returned to the radio booth with a loss to No. 7 Shane Vanderson. Ben Croft had a barn burner with Colombia's Juan Herrera in a match that produced a series of patriotic chants from the crowd. Croft won the match, but had little success in the next round against No. 2 Jack Huczek. Of the U.S. Junior Team members in the main IRT draw Croft advanced the furthest - into the round of 32.

Fourty-four players set out to try and capture one of coveted spots in the main IRT draw. The 16 players who made the cut represented six different countries, and seven of the players were from foreign countries. The international contingent included Canada's current National Champion Corey Osborne and Mexico's Ruben Estrada, the reigning 14 & Under Junior World Champion. Three current US Junior Team members also advanced to the main bracket, including the reigning US Boys 18 & Under champion Chris Coy (pictured right).

Thursday is the day at the US OPEN where the serious contenders separate themselves from the pack, and those looking to join them need to put together a run. To advance to the quarterfinals, a player needs to not only win during the morning in the round of 32, but also in the round of 16 later the same day.

Looking to make a repeat performance of his semifinal run in the inaugural US OPEN in 1996, Woody Clouse knocked off the event's No. 13 seed, Chris Crowther in the round of 64, 11-4, 9-11, 7-11, 11-5, 11-7. Joining Clouse in the round of 32 was his fellow qualifier, Willie Tilton, who also took out one of the event's top seeds. This time it was No. 10 Kyle Veenstra, also falling in five games 11-7, 6-11, 3-11, 11-6, 11-4.

Earlier, Javier Moreno defeated No. 12 Josh Tucker in a four game battle to earn a match-up with No. 5 Rocky Carson. Carson started slow against Moreno, losing the first two games, but settled in and took the last three to advance to the quarterfinals.

The upsets continued with Polo Gutierrez taking out No. 9 Jason Thoerner. Gutierrez jumped out with an 11-1 first game when, only to have Thoerner win the second game 11-7. The Chilean won the third 11-6, and then in the longest game of the tournament – and maybe ever on the IRT Tour – Gutierrez closed out the match, 21-19.

After his morning victory, Gutierrez looked forward to continuing his run of upsets with an evening match against No. 8 Mike Guidry. The two split the first two games, and in the fifth and deciding game youth out powered wisdom with Gutierrez winning the game 11-7, and the match. Gutierrez's prize for knocking out the event's No. 8 and No. 9 seeds was a date with the top-ranked player in the world and two-time defending US OPEN champion Kane Waselenchuk.

Waselenchuk cruised in his first three matches of the event, including a straight game victory in the second round over fellow Texan Brian Fredenberg (pictured left). The top seven seeds all reached the quarterfinals, and did so dropping just three games combined.

The action began with a five gamer between No. 5 Rocky Carson and No. 4 Jason Mannino (pictured right). Carson took the first game before Mannino stepped things up to take the second and third games, putting the pressure on Carson to respond, which he did. Carson then took the fourth game, 11-3, before closing out the match with tight 11-9 win in the fourth.

"Today was a tough battle," said Carson. "Anytime you play a top ranked IRT player, you know you're in for a battle. And when that match comes at the US OPEN, you know you've got to be on top of your game."

The next quarterfinal match also went five games as No. 3 Cliff Swain and No. 6 Alvaro Beltran battled it out in front of the crowd surrounding Stadium Court. Swain lost the first game 11-2 and looked to be in trouble until he turned things around midway through the second to even the match at a game apiece, 11-9. Swain then got things going big time in the third game, blanking Beltran, 11-0.

Swain's next opponent, No. 2 Jack Huczek, played crisp against No.7 Shane Vanderson, winning the first two games, 11-9, 11-2, before Vanderson found his groove in the third, going up 10-0 before eventually winning 11-3. The momentum wasn't enough to carry him into the fourth game and Huczek closed things out, 11-7, to move into the semifinal. No.1 Kane Waselenchuk continued his run towards a third-straight US OPEN title with a win over upset minded Polo Gutierrez. Waselenchuk cruised to wins in the first two games 11-2, 11-4, and after a fight by Gutierrez in the third, the native Canadian put the match away with an 11-9 win.
IRT SEMIFINALS:
The first semifinal was No. 2 Jack Huczek (pictured right) versus No. 3 Cliff Swain in a rematch of last year’s semifinal—a five-gamer that Swain won. Huczek quickly took a two-game lead on Swain, which included a doughnut in the first. Many began to wonder if Swain’s gutsy performance Friday night to defeat Alvaro Beltran in five games had taken its toll.

That was when something seemed to change in Swain’s demeanor and after winning the third game, 11-4, Swain smelled blood and began to start his comeback in earnest. He went on to narrowly win the fourth game, 11-9, then controlled the fifth, 11-3, to move into his record seventh US OPEN final.

“That was when something seemed to change in Swain’s demeanor and after winning the third game, 11-4, Swain smelled blood and began to start his comeback in earnest. He went on to narrowly win the fourth game, 11-9, then controlled the fifth, 11-3, to move into his record seventh US OPEN final.”

“Someone asked me how I keep doing this and I just said, ‘How could I not?’” Swain said. “I love coming here to play for you. I love playing on this court and in front of these fans.”

The other semifinal featured No.1 Kane Waselenchuk, who hadn’t lost a game in two years at the US OPEN, versus No.5 Rocky Carson (pictured left). Carson made evident from the beginning that Waselenchuk would be in for a battle as he took the first game, 11-6.

Waselenchuk then stepped it up, taking the next two games and putting Carson on the ropes.

Carson showed signs of hope by taking the fourth, 11-5, but then Waselenchuk seemingly squashed them having match point at 10-4. Carson, however, continued to battle and, after stringing together a few points, had the crowd raising the rafters with chants of “Rocky! Rocky!”

Just after tying the score at 10-10, Carson had his hopes dashed as Waselenchuk showed why he is the reigning two-time US OPEN Champion and closed out the match, 12-10.

“'As much as I would like to win in three games, a win like this is more fulfilling,' Waselenchuk said. ‘To be a true champion you have to beat your opponents when they are playing their best and Rocky was playing some incredible ball out there today.’”

IRT FINAL:
In a rematch of last year’s final Kane Waselenchuk faced off against Cliff Swain. Waselenchuk was looking to become the event’s first three-time consecutive winner, while Swain was in the US OPEN final for the seventh time in the last ten years.

Waselenchuk’s easy victory over Swain in 2004 (11-1, 11-3, 11-0) capped the most dominant US OPEN performance ever. This year Swain put up more of a fight, but still fell, 11-5, 12-10, 12-10.

Last year Waselenchuk became the only player in the tournament’s history to win back-to-back titles and now can add “three-peat” to his list of accomplishments.

“All I ever wanted to do was just win one pro stop. I never thought I would be doing all of this,” Waselenchuk said. “I’m going to let this one soak in. This is the best one so far.”

After the match murmurs of Swain’s retirement circulated among the crowd, but the sport’s greatest player feels he still has plenty left.

“I could have easily been up two games to one, but instead I lost in three,” Swain said “I felt good and my swing felt good, but when I hit shots, they just didn’t go where I wanted them to.”

Waselenchuk’s tournament win ran his all-time US OPEN record to 28-3, and he should be favored to build to his amazing US OPEN resume in 2006.

WPRO QUALIFIER AND OPENING ROUNDS:
The WPRO upsets started early with Canadian Jennifer Saunders' victory over No.8 Adrienne Fisher in four games. Fisher took the first game 11-9 before Saunders caught fire in the second, winning 11-2. Fisher appeared to be tired in the third game and ended up bowing out of the event with Saunders wins of 13-11, 11-8.

Adrienne's sister Kelley sneaked out a win in the round's only five-gamer over Canadian Lori-Jane Powell, extracting a bit of revenge not only for her sister, but the US as well. Fisher and Powell exchanged the first four games before Fisher took control in the fifth for the win, 11-8, 5-11, 12-10, 5-11, 11-2.

All other top seeds advanced through the first round with relative ease although Angela Grisar dropped a game to Karen Morton. Last year's darling, Paola Longoria of Mexico, had her US OPEN cut short by fellow country woman Samantha Salas, 11-8, 2-11, 11-7, 11-3.

WPRO QUARTERS & SEMIS:
Fenton went on to defeat Kyzer later in the evening to earn her spot in the semifinals. There she would meet Rhonda Rajsich who earlier defeated Tammy Brown, 11-4, 11-7, 12-10.

No. 5 Kristen Walsh (pictured above) recorded a minor upset over No.4 Angela Grisar in a five-gamer 2-11, 11-7, 8-11, 11-6, 11-5, to earn her chance to play No.1 Christie Van Hees in the semifinals. Van Hees defeated Diane Moore in the quarterfinals, 11-3, 11-4, 11-1.

Despite being decided in straight games, both of the women's semifinal matches provided the crowd with some entertaining racquetball. The day started out with Rhonda Rajsich defeating Laura Fenton (pictured right) by the scores of 11-5, 11-9, 11-5. Rajsich used her drive serves and some unbelievable diving gets to roll past Fenton in the semifinals.

The second WPRO semifinal between Christie Van Hees and Kristen Walsh had potential for a classic. Van Hees jumped out to a 5-0 lead in Game 1 utilizing a drive serve and taking advantage of mid-court set-ups, eventually winning the game 12-10. It was all Van Hees from that point on as Walsh could never get setup to shoot, and when she did, she was having trouble putting the ball where she wanted.

Game 2 was over before it started with Van Hees ripping balls at every angle, winning 11-2 and Game 3 was a continuation with the score ending at 11-5 resulting in another US OPEN final for Van Hees.

WPRO FINAL:
Top seeded Van Hees captured her second career US OPEN title by defeating No. 3 Rhonda Rajsich in four games. Rajsich took the first game 13-11, before Van Hees settled into a groove winning the next three easily, 11-4, 11-5, 11-4.

"I felt great heading into the match today, but was a little tight out there in the beginning," said Van Hees. "Someone told me to relax and have fun between games and I realized that they were right."

Van Hees retired for two years shortly after winning the US OPEN in 2000 and has now come full circle by first regaining the number one ranking and now the sport's most prestigious title.

"I'm enjoying this one a hundred times more than the first one," she said. "I am more mature on the court and just happier with life in general."
The Amateurs Came To Play Too...

The Choice Hotels US OPEN Racquetball Championships has truly become a holiday tradition. For the 10th consecutive year, players from around the country have come to Memphis to not only watch racquetball's top athletes, but also to get on the court themselves.

Nearly 800 players took to the courts at The University of Memphis, WellWorx Sportsplex, and Ridgeway Baptist Recreation Center in a variety of age and skill divisions. Once the top four finishers in each division were awarded their US OPEN medals—which weighed almost a full pound each—nearly 1,500 matches were played!

Congratulations to all who came and played and we'll see you next year.

FUN OFF THE COURT...
The Choice Hotels US OPEN produces a solid week of on the court action, but also plenty of non-stop fun off the hardwood. On Wednesday night an International Reception (pictured right) was held for all those players who traveled to Memphis from beyond US borders. On Thursday a Ladies Night was held at the Fox & Hound Sports Bar, located next door to The Racquet Club and a favorite hangout for all players. Friday evening brought the action to “The Pub” inside The Racquet Club of Memphis with a live DJ spinning the hottest tunes.

The nerve center of the US OPEN is the Player Village. Many activities including an extensive Industry Trade Show, pro autograph signing sessions, live stage with entertainment, concessions, cash bar and informational seminars were enjoyed by all.

Saturday evening topped off the party calendar with the gala racquetball bash of the year - The US OPEN “PARTY WITH THE PROS”. More than 1,000 racquetball players and fans came to The Racquet Club Party Center for dinner and an evening of live entertainment featuring one of Tennessee’s hottest dance bands, The Venus Mission.

NIKON ALL-STAR SKILLS CHALLENGE
A mix of stars from the International Racquetball Tour (IRT) and the Women’s Professional Racquetball Organization (WPRO) displayed their skills in a variety of challenges.

In the Accuracy Competitions, players were given one minute to hit targets placed on the front wall with different point values depending on the shot’s degree of difficulty. For the backhand, Shane Vanderson smacked his competitors and in the forehand battle, Jason Mannino sweated out the win.

Prior to the start of the Lob Serve competition, US OPEN tournament director and the Skills Challenge emcee Doug Ganim asked if there were amateurs in the crowd who felt they could compete with the pros on this skill. Only one gentleman raised his hand, and was invited onto the court to see who could place the most lob serves into the box in the back left corner. Jason Mannino was the only Pro to earn a point in the competition, and when Manny the Amateur put one in the box as well, he and Mannino went to a lob-off where the Pro eventually won out. But for his efforts and courage to battle the Pros, Manny walked away with a new digital camera courtesy of Nikon.

In the featured competition of the night, several pros and amateurs smashed it out to see who could hit the ball the hardest. Brian Fredenberg from Texas peaked the radar gun at 186 m.p.h. to win the competition.

ST. JUDE PRO-AM DOUBLES
Local player Don Wade teamed up with No. 5 ranked Rocky Carson to win the 10th Annual St. Jude Pro-Am Charity Doubles Tournament. Wade and Carson defeated Gail Schaefer and top-ranked Kane Waselenchuk in a hard fought final, 15-11.

Wade, a sports reporter with the Memphis Commercial Appeal, earned his turn to be interviewed after “carrying” Carson through the draw. “I need to figure out a way to make him look forty-five so that we can play age division doubles.” Wade said.

The St. Jude Pro-Am Doubles sold out for the Tenth year in a row and raised $8,000 for the hospital. In addition getting to play in the event and donate to a great cause, the amateurs received a signed racquet from their professional partner.

SILENT AUCTION FOR ST. JUDE
The St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital annual silent auction fundraiser helped surpass the US OPEN ten year total of $130,000 that has been donated to the Memphis hospital.

The Ruben Gonzalez original painting was acquired for $700 and several bidders were in on that action. Additional big auction items were the cameras from Nikon, various tennis racquets and collector items from the White House and Air Force One. The auction proceeds of $5,000 set a new event record. Combined with the $8,000 raised in the Pro-Am Doubles event and the refereeing fees donated from players throughout the tournament, more than $13,000 was raised this year.

A big and special thanks goes out to the auction donors and contributors and the many friends of racquetball that have made donations to this annual fundraiser. Through this effort, a bigger step has been taken for the children at St. Jude Children’s Hospital and their families.
Message from Event Director

On behalf of the Choice Hotels US OPEN Staff, I would like to sincerely thank everyone who joined us in Memphis for the 10th Anniversary of our sport's original “grand slam” event.

The US OPEN represents everything that is great about racquetball, and I am truly honored to play a small part in this event's success. Choice Hotels has sponsored this event since the beginning, and they recently signed on to be the title sponsor for another three years. A special thanks also goes out to Memphis and our host clubs – The Racquet Club of Memphis, The University of Memphis, WellWorx Sportsplex and Ridgeway Baptist Recreation Center.

We all come to Memphis to watch racquetball's best players and compete ourselves as well, but the true winner is St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. In the ten years of the US OPEN, more than $130,000 has been donated to support making differences in the lives of children and families in need.

I hope to see you all next year!

Site and Dates Set for 2006 Motorola IRT Pro Nationals

by Dave Negrete

The 2006 Motorola Pro National Racquetball Championships and USA Racquetball Adult Regionals are set for April 26-30, 2006. After a very successful event last year, Motorola has renewed its sponsorship for the coming year. The event will be held at Schaumburg Tennis Plus, owned and operated by the Schaumburg Park District. Additional clubs will be announced soon. Schaumburg is a northwest suburb about 20 minutes from O'Hare International Airport and 45 minutes from downtown Chicago.

Men's Pro Qualifying will begin on Wednesday and Regional amateur matches will begin Thursday. The portable court will be present, creating racquetball's second grand slam event. The event will be televised on the Tennis Channel and details on other networks are being negotiated at this time. International players will be able to play in all divisions offered. The event will feature a Rock-n-Roll theme and promises to be cutting edge. The WPRO will also have a presence at the event this year.

A charity doubles event with the top 10 men will take place on Wednesday evening. Cost of playing with a professional will be $500 with the funds going to the local chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF). Last year we raised over $8,000 and we hope to exceed that amount this year.

VIP box seats are available for purchase by contacting Dave Negrete at negrete@comcast.net. Space is limited, so reserve your box now!

There will be a huge party on Friday night featuring local legends Dirty Deeds, an AC/DC tribute band, as well as the Party with the Pro's on Saturday evening at Prairie Rock Brewery, the event's food and beverage sponsor.

Look for entry and ticket information about the event in the next issue of Racquetball magazine or on our website www.irt-pronationals.com. I look forward to seeing you all in Chicago at the 2006 Motorola IRT Pro Nationals and USAR Adult Regionals!

Carson Wins New Mexico Open Title!

Midtown Sports & Wellness of Albuquerque, New Mexico and the New Mexico Racquetball Association kicked off the racquetball season with the New Mexico Pro-Am Racquetball Classic. The event was the third IRT Satellite event of the season and featured some of the top players on the IRT. Tournament director Gary Mazaroff anticipated a large draw this year and got it, with players from all over the southwest invading Albuquerque from October 20-23, 2005. The event also featured a full ranking WPRO division as well as men's and women's skill divisions in singles and doubles.

Rocky Carson defeated fellow Californian Josh Tucker in three straight games to take his first New Mexico title. Carson returned serve very well and put away Tucker's mistakes at every opportunity, scoring a 4, 4, 9 victory in the final. Tucker never really got his serve going and when he did, Carson was there for some great returns. This was Carson's second straight satellite win, since he won the Lou Bradley Pro-Am trophy two weekends earlier in Madison, Wisconsin. Josh Tucker fought off a tough Ben Croft in four games in the semifinals. Josh had his serve going and kept Croft off balance most of the match. A time out at 9-9 in the second game gave Tucker the breather he needed to finish out the game. Croft came back with some straight-in lobs to Tucker's forehand and Josh felt the altitude a little — Ben took advantage of this, winning the third. Both players made some great gets in this match. Game Four was all Tucker as he advanced on to meet Carson in Sunday's final. Carson, the #1 seed, had little trouble with Mexico's Polo Gutierrez, finishing him off in three lackluster games. Polo mustered nine points in Game Three, mostly on Carson miscues.

Rocky and Josh spoke to the crowd after the match, answering many questions about the IRT, playing the game and the state of the game. Both players thanked the crowd and acknowledged Gary Mazaroff and his fine tournament staff for putting on a great event. Midtown Sports & Wellness is a great club for a pro stop — with assistance from the IRT, this tourney can become a full ranking event in the future. Thanks to the New Mexico Racquetball Association for their support and special thanks to Mark Bianchi and Ken Goldstein for their help with officiating this tournament.
Swain and Beltran Win Doubles Event in Chicago!
by Dave Negrete

On Friday evening of the Chicago Halloween Doubles event, all the top seeds advanced in the quarterfinals with relative ease. After a little scare in the first game (still winning 12-10) Cliff Swain/Alvaro Beltran settled down to defeat Keith Minor/John Amatulli in three games. Keith Minor of KWM Gutterman International is a sponsor of the event; both he and John Amatulli are active in keeping racquetball healthy in the Chicagoland area. The next match featured Tour Commissioner Dave Negrete and Eugene Coyle (fitness specialist to the pros) against Jack Huczek and Rocky Carson. Handling the Commissioner’s trash talk, Carson and Huczek turned on the heat to win in three straight. The next match featured an odd team of lefties — the best in the world Kane Waselenchuk and multiple U.S. Doubles champion Mike Guidry — pitted against two-time 18-and-under World Junior Champion Ben Croft and one of the IRT’s Top 12, Andy Hawthorne. Kane demonstrated why he is the best in the world and Guidry held up the left side to defeat Team Ektelon in three games. The last match of the evening proved to be the best as Team Head was well represented with Shane Vanderson and Josh Tucker advancing over Jason Thoerner and Kyle Veenstra in a five-game battle. This was the match of the night and the excited crowd rose to their feet numerous times throughout the match.

The semifinals began Saturday afternoon with a marquee match-up of Kane Waselenchuk/Mike Guidry vs. Cliff Swain/Alvaro Beltran. The match lived up to its expectations as the fans witnessed some awesome racquetball. The scores did not reflect the closeness of this match — there were some unbelievable rallies. Beltran traded shot for shot with Guidry in the front court during this match. Swain and Beltran took the match in 4 games 3, (3), 6, 5.

The next semifinal match featured the only team in the draw that had some experience playing together (Jack Huczek/Rocky Carson) facing Shane Vanderson and Josh Tucker. All bets were on Huczek and Carson coming out on top in this one but Shane and Josh had something to say about that. Playing some inspired ball with his dad in the stands, Vanderson lit up his backhand and Tucker began hitting missiles with his forehand as they took the momentum away in the second game, winning 13-11. They kept rolling in the next two and Jack and Rocky could never get a run going. Josh and Shane took the match in four games (7), 11, 6, 6.

The final was just as entertaining with Swain ripping serves, Beltran showing off his great hands, Tucker blasting forehands and Vanderson hitting backhands from everywhere. It was Swain and Beltran in the final, coming out on top but not without a fight! Vanderson seemed to confuse the opponents in the second game with a lob down the middle; Cliff and Alvaro showed some indecision as to who should play the return and what type return to hit. Tucker re-killed most of the shots hit at

What a great IRT racquetball event with players making themselves available all weekend to the fans. Kane was seen giving some tips to local player Gary Dyrek in an empty squash court when he overheard Gary talking about how he was beaten in his first tournament match ever. Gary is a lefty, of course! Jack spent time talking to various fans in the stands during the finals, as did Rocky Carson and Mike Guidry. Carson came in early and presented clinics in Rockford and Schaumburg. Thoerner and Tucker were on hand to entertain the crowd on Saturday evening with some great play-by-play.

The pros did play for third and fourth with Carson and Huczek taking the match 6-4, 6-1 on a tennis court. It was Kane's first time with a tennis racquet in his hands. Will he follow in Swain's footsteps and give tennis a crack sometime in the future? Him, helping to take the second game. Swain and Beltran regrouped between games and began handling the serve with Beltran going to the ceiling and Swain ending most of the rallies. They won the match and the first IRT Doubles title in 5 years with scores of 4, (7), 9, 5. All players spoke after their matches, acknowledging each other and letting the fans know how much they enjoyed battling on the doubles court. Ed Arias from Proracquetball.net was there to film the entire event — go to the website to order a DVD of the match of your choice. Just click on the proracquetball.net icon on the IRT website to get there.

The IRT extends a special thanks to the great staff members who ran the event: Diane Bunker, Martha Huske, Julie Vincent and Liz Molitor. Also, thanks to John Massard of Elmhurst Extended Care and all the entrants who supported the event by playing in the amateur portion of the tournament. Your support of the IRT and Chicagoland racquetball does not go unappreciated. The IRT also thanks Leo and Sue Klimaitis, Keith Minor and Pat Taylor for their tremendous support.
Racquet for the Cure Tournaments
Take Off Across the US!

At National Singles in Houston last May, the Ektelon Women's Advisory Council, formed in 2003 to encourage more women to play racquetball, launched a campaign to hold several nationwide Racquet for the Cure (RFTC) tournaments. This idea originated from the annual Denver RFTC tournament hosted by Council members Jean Gallagher and Marcia Richards who have put on an amazing event each February for the past 6 years. Linda Mojer has created a website (www.racquetforthecure.com) to check out where a tournament is located and to provide all the information needed to plan and execute an RFTC tournament. As of this writing, there have been three Racquet for the Cure tournaments that have raised over $22,000 for breast cancer research!

The first tournament took place on August 27, 2005 in Peoria, Illinois (hometown of Susan G. Komen). This was a one-day tournament headed by Jim Maroon who got the idea from the presentation given by Cheryl Kirk and Kerri Wachtel in the Houston team meeting. The goals for the Peoria event were simple: raise money for breast cancer research and have a fun-filled event. In order to achieve these goals, a Planning and Fundraising Committee consisting of Jim Maroon, Pam Schubach, Terry Sutton, Traci Steen, Karen Carter, and Joann Kempthorne set objectives to have 50+ players enter the tournament and to raise between $4,000 and $5,000. Both goals were accomplished. The format was women's singles, doubles, and mixed doubles (the latter so the men could also participate). After the tournament, an awards banquet, slide show, silent auction, and dance was held. Plans are underway for the 2006 tournament!

Sixty-five players participated in the Annual Vintage Doubles tournament held at the Petaluma Valley Athletic Club on November 11-13, 2005. Area Team Ektelon players (Vinnie Caramagno, Brian Dixon, Barry Lynes, Kim Cameron, Jack Hughes, Rick Ramirez, Terry Rogers, Alyse Cori, Nidia Funes, Nancy Large, Eric Schmidt, Louise Winters, and Ryan Wollitz) donated funds to help defray hospitality expenses and assisted in the sale of raffle tickets; several donated $200 or more as tournament sponsors. This tournament held a special place in the hearts of many since the PVAV club owner is currently battling breast cancer. She was moved by the generosity shown by participants, guests, and sponsors. In addition, Team Ektelon players organized a separate O3 Pink racquet raffle selling tickets for $5 per ticket. This raffle added $500 to the overall donation of $12,000 and made one young lady very happy!

Prairie Life Center was proud to host the first Racquet for the Cure tournament in Nebraska. The committee was lead by Julie Dvorak, Jane Fleming and Carrie Reitmeier. This was a one-day event offering women's singles and women's doubles as well as men's doubles and mixed doubles. Players from Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas traveled to share in the camaraderie. The business community supported this event wholeheartedly. With over 80 businesses donating services, products and cash, the committee was successful in putting together an impressive silent auction that raised over $4,000. The Cruise for Two was the "big ticket item" and the pink Ektelon O3 racquet went for $195! The women's events and the men's doubles started off the day at 8:00 a.m. Early afternoon brought the mixed doubles to finish the day!

by Kerri Wachtel

These events are more than just racquetball tournaments. They are a celebration of courage, determination, perseverance, and life. They represent not only the memory of lives that remains in our hearts but also lives that loved ones are fighting to save and lives that have been reborn by winning a battle with the disease. I hope everyone who reads this will be encouraged to round up a few of their racquetball playing friends, talk to their club, and see if they can be a part of this new initiative for hope. Many resources stand ready assist you in getting your tournament off the ground — all it takes is the desire to make a difference! We hope to see your city on the growing list of RFTC tournaments for 2006 and beyond.

In addition to his outdoor accomplishments, Hawkes also was an accomplished indoor player. He was formerly ranked #7 on the IRT Pro Tour, was a National Singles Champion in 1984 and National Doubles Champion in 1988. He was also a member of the 1989 and 1991 US Team.

“Hawkes is a great competitor and helped create awareness of the outdoor game during his long career,” stated Scott Winters, General Manager, Indoor Court Sports for Prince Sports, Inc. “He has been an inspiration to all players, especially to juniors, both on and off the court.”

Pro Kennex Outdoor Series #1

To most, mid October means plans for settling in for a long winter. Not in Huntington Beach, California where Outdoor Racquetball is thriving. The Pro Kennex Outdoor Classic was blessed with 75-80 degree weather. Yielding over 30 entrants in the pro division, spectators and players were treated to a weekend of great barbecue and racquetball. In typical outdoor fashion, fans were lined up in lawn chairs at the perimeter of the courts awaiting the next great match. In the pro singles division, a center line was placed in the middle of the court spanning from the service box to the back of the court. Much like the IRT tour in the early 90’s, the server had the opportunity to server where he wanted upon entering the box, but every serve thereafter was to be kept within the opposing quadrant. This rule dramatically increased the number of rallies and negated the effect of big serves that have become commonplace in the outdoor game.

The first quarterfinal match featured Jeff Johnson upsetting Son Nguyen. Craig “Chibber” Lane advanced past Kevin Booth and Jesus Ocana showed local indoor great Mike Orr the ins and outs of outdoor racquetball in a hard fought win. Allen Kazem fell to Greg Solis in straight games. The semis began on Sunday with Greg Solis and Jesus “Zues” Ocana. For those that don’t remember, Zues Ocana lost to long time indoor pro John Ellis 11-5 tiebreaker at the WOR Championships. Ocana was bringing the heat and backing it up with a tad bit of trash talking in his usual fashion that gathered fans. Solis seemed unaffected by the “smack” of the ball and the mouth by Ocana and used his outdoor savvy to advance to the finals. The second semifinal featured long outdoor pro Craig Lane and Jeff Johnson. Johnson seemed off his usual serve and rally style game and committed numerous unforced errors that Lane capitalized on to advance in straight games. After a five year hiatus from singles, Craig Lane found himself in the finals against his doubles partner Greg Solis. The doubles partners both came out serving big and bringing the typical outdoor heat needed to win, but again, Solis seemed unaffected by the power. The big serves were short lived for both players due to the newly implemented center service line. The quick hands and feet of Solis made a tough combination for Lane to overcome as he fell in straight games to Solis. With this win, Solis is well on his way to another title as the outdoor points champion.

In the pro doubles division, Solis and Lane were on a collision course with the newly formed team of Rob Hoff and Josh Tucker. Past national champs Solis and Lane found themselves facing the red hot team of Gary Martin and Pete Gucci. Martin and Gucci, fresh off of an impressive upset over Jeff Johnson and Rick Sandlello, had a ton of momentum coming into the match. The momentum was short lived after big serves and consistent re-kills by Solis and Lane seemed to stop Martin and Gucci cold. The past champs advanced in straight games, 15-1, 15-4. In a much more eventful semifinal, Hoff and Tucker faced Kevin Booth and Mike Peters. The always tough Booth and Peters came out in typical fashion by executing a well thought out game plan. The plan didn’t last long as Tucker and Hoff began blasting forehands and hitting precise angles to keep Booth and Peters off the court and off balance. The huge serve of Tucker and consistent play of Hoff was no match for Booth and Peters as the fell in straight games.

The finals featured a court consisting of Rob Hoff holding two outdoor national titles, Solis with four, Lane with five. Josh Tucker was not out of place though. The Missouri transplant has found his niche outdoor and was out to prove he belonged in the finals. The indoor tourer wasted no time blasting serves in excess of 170 mph and kept both Lane and Solis on their heels.

The game plan of Hoff and Tucker was apparent from the beginning. They team in the “T” formation the entire match and didn’t deviate. This seemed frustrate Lane and Solis as they were unable to consistently put the ball away, thus making costly errors. The title went to Hoff and Tucker in straight games and the two pulled of the upset in convincing fashion.
Outstanding US Performances

World Champions – World Cup
Jose Rojas (CA) – Boys 14s
Danny Lavely/Chad McGuffey (OH) – Boys 14 Doubles

World Champions – Espirit Cup
Courtney Chisholm (MA)/Elizabeth Brenner (OR) – Girl’s 12 Doubles
Joseph Lee (LA) – Boy’s 12 Singles

Finalists – World Cup
Shannon Inglesby (OR) – Girl’s 16 Singles (filling in for Michelle Key who injured her hamstring prior to the tourney)
Shannon Inglesby/Brittany Leggett (OR) – Girl’s 16 Doubles
Ishmael Aldana/Jose Rojas (CA) – Boy’s 16 Doubles

Finalists – Espirit Cup
Elizabeth Vargas (CO) – Girl’s 8 Singles
Joseph Lee (LA)/Dylan Reid (OR) – Boy’s 12 Doubles
Marko Rojas (CA) – Boy’s 12 Singles

Performances of note
John Lindsey (OR) in the Boy’s 10 singles got to the semifinals in his first Junior Worlds beating several tough Mexican competitors along the way.

Shannon Inglesby (OR) stepping up to play singles and doubles when Michelle Key pulled out of singles due to a pulled hamstring…Shannon had some issues herself with her right shoulder, but she played on and earned two silver medals.

Matt McAdam (CO) grandson of Robert McAdam (TX), playing as a US Point Earner in the Boy’s 8s played extremely well.

Jose Rojas (CA) - in winning the Boy’s 14 singles World Championship had a great tournament throughout. With his mentor, John Ellis, there for part of the tourney he put on a racquetball demonstration for anyone that wanted to watch. Never letting the crowds get to him, he stayed focused and decisively won the title.

Danny Lavely/Chad McGuffey (OH) great tournament in the Boy’s 14 Doubles! Watching the tiebreaker in the finals was one of the most exhilarating experiences of the whole tourney…Danny was pumping his fist with every point and really getting the whole crowd involved.
Boys 12s All three competitors deserve credit here. Joseph Lee won the event beating teammate Marko Rojas in the finals. He also teamed with Dylan Reid in the doubles and just missed in the final in a tiebreaker. Dylan and Marko also had a real battle in the quarterfinals of the singles draw.

Boy's 18s – Chris Coy (OK) and Mike Keddie (NH) meeting in the quarters of the main draw. A 2 hour battle amongst friends and doubles partners. After winning, Chris had to turn around and play Gil De los Rios an hour or so later.

Courtney Chisholm (MA) carried banner in the Girl's 12 singles when her doubles partner, Elizabeth Brenner, lost early in the singles. Got to the semifinals and then teamed with Brenner (OR) to easily win the doubles world championship.
When I decided to write an account of the 2005 Junior World Championships I was unsure how to begin.

While there have been numerous challenges and much hard work over the years, there have also been so many lifelong friends made along the way as well. Being involved with a team that, year after year, lives and breathes integrity and sportsmanship, and working under head coach Kelley Beane, who not only breeds it but demands it, has been an honor and a privilege.

Every year the team goes through the process of players having to leave the team and moving on to go to college. This year we have had to say goodbye to veterans Jared Torres, Ashley Leggett, Katie Ferguson, and Captains Anthony Herrera and Kelley Fisher. Rarely do we have to say goodbye to a player who remains eligible to play but chooses to go in a different direction. This year we had to do just that.

Shannon Inglesby, a junior standout from Oregon, came to Juarez to represent the Junior team in girls 16 doubles with partner Brittany Leggett. Both the coaches and Brittany knew that this would perhaps be Shannon's last event not only in juniors, but for the game in general. Shannon has chosen instead to pursue her talents as a star softball player and is aspiring to go on to Division I college softball, while studying to become a physical therapist. Unfortunately, with Shannon's focus being softball, there will be little time for her to continue to do both. Our team, and the coaches, will miss her strength on the court and know that not having her back leaves us with an emotional void as well.

I talked with Shannon in Juarez and since her return back to the states. Shannon was asked to step up for injured player Michelle Key, who had pulled her hamstring prior to the tournament and was unable to compete. We knew Shannon would be great in both divisions, but Shannon had reservations initially. "When I realized I might be taking the singles spot as well, I flipped out. I thought there was no way in the world I would make it out of the first round and couldn't get the thought out of my head. If I lost early, and the coaches put me in that spot for a reason and then I screwed it up, how would I deal with that, I wondered. But then I realized, you know, I am going to step up and do this. In the end, I did what I had to do, but also knowing that being under prepared for both divisions, and not being in as good of shape as I could have been for the physical demands of two divisions, I did not leave my best game on the court in Mexico. I am glad it was me that got to take Michelle's place and I know I did my best. That's all I can say."

I asked Shannon how she feels about her overall experiences with the team and about her potentially leaving racquetball behind to pursue her dream as a softball player. We had numerous discussions in Mexico about her leaving the game, and had many team meetings in which Shannon seemed to be torn and melancholy about the thought of not being on the junior team again. There were many tears throughout the week and head coach Kelley Beane and I had numerous discussions about how Shannon would be missed if she ultimately made the decision to not return. "Shannon's a great athlete. She does everything we have asked of her. It is an honor to work with an athlete of her caliber. She makes our job as coaches easy. It is not often you get to work with someone like Shannon."

As Shannon reflects on her team and World experiences a few things stand out in her mind. "Knowing that this would be my last year wearing USA on my back and playing for my coaches made Worlds even tougher for me than it was physically playing two divisions. It was hard for me to be there in the first place. In nine years, I have made the best friends I the world, most of whom I talk with on a daily basis. Even though I may never see them again, I will keep in touch. The kids on the team since I was eight years-old and coaches Shane Wood, Andy Pitock, Jen Meyer, Cheryl Gudinas, Mitt Layton, and Kelley Beane will never be forgotten. I cannot thank everyone enough for what they have done for me over the years.

"Leaving the game is the worst feeling in the world! Walking away from a sport that has taken up 9 years of your life is extremely hard. I know I will play High School Nationals, but that is most likely my last BIG tournament. It is very hard for some to believe. But, my dream is softball and I had to make a choice which way to go. Not a day goes by that I don't think of this...and that is the truth!"

Shannon's performance in Juarez was stellar. Being on all of Shannon's matches, I was lucky to see her play in what might be her last event (Don't think I didn't put myself on those matches by design...) to watch Shannon Inglesby play racquetball is pure joy. As a matter of fact, there is no one currently that I would rather watch. Shannon combines the tenacity and determination of Lynn Adams with the pure shot making and serving domination of Michelle Gould. To come away with 2 silver medals while admittedly putting minimal time on the court due to other commitments, makes me wonder what Shannon's true potential is. But I know the answer to that. She could be the best the game has ever seen. I can only hope that one day I will have the opportunity to experience her fine play again.

From the US Team athletes and coaches: We love you and you will be missed. Best wishes in all your endeavors.

Brittany Leggett, silver medalist, girl's 16 doubles: "I hope every day that Shannon finds a way to come back again and play another Worlds, because I, as well as many other people, know that she would go far."

Danny Lavely, silver medalist, boy's 16 doubles (with partner Chad McGuffey), and semi finalist, boy's 16 singles: Hopefully her finishes will leave a hunger for her to go back and compete again at the worlds, but I could not be more proud of her performance in Juarez as a team member and a friend.

Chad McGuffey, Boys 14 – Shannon works hard for what she wants and is an inspiration to us all – Please reconsider Shannon!

Q. What would you say the key is to having a successful organization?
A. The key to a successful organization is having people who are willing to put the time in to make it successful, without expecting anything in return. The President's role is to attract and retain the volunteers while ensuring that you match capabilities, passion and time availability. It's a constant juggling act and you can never ignore it for more than a week or two to be successful.

Q. What is the number one complaint you hear as President?
A. The number one complaint currently is the inaccuracy of the USA Racquetball ranking system. Members are having a difficult time understanding why they don’t appear in the same place in the rankings as they did under the old system and the difference between a “participation” based ranking system vs. a “results” based ranking system.
At tournaments, there are always opinions on match times, draws, hospitality, souvenirs, format etc. We are fortunate in Illinois that we have a core group of regular tournament aficionados - BUT, they don’t always like change, and we need to change to continue to attract new players into the sport.

Q. What are your most successful programs?
A. Our ISRA Travel League
Over 35 teams compete weekly in league play. A team match format is used. Teams accumulate points over the course of a long (6 month) season. The league has been in existence for over 25 years and is one way we keep players involved. Those who may no longer be able to play tournaments stay connected to competitive play through the Travel League. This year we even added a team from Indiana to the league. The ISRA Travel League is sanctioned and all players are required to be current USAR/ISRA Members throughout the season.

JTI (Junior Team Illinois)
JTI exists because of an excellent and dedicated group of Illinois parents. The team currently consists of about 40 players. They have rules and a code of conduct. There is structure and discipline - the team meets twice a week, every week to learn and improve from some of the best Coaches in the country, including Cheryl Gudinas, Andy Pitock and TJ Ferro. Players are coached by volunteers who help them continue to learn and improve. The clubs have been very generous in supporting JTI activities. Parents have been willing to travel to other states in order to allow players to participate in events against other states. This is the future of racquetball....and we have it right here in Illinois.

Q. If you could share some advice to a struggling state what would it be?
A. Don’t try to do too much – pick your battles, whether it is a well run State Championship, a regular newsletter or website for communication, or collecting results for area and national rankings. Fewer things done well are better than more things done poorly. Doing too much leads to burnout.

Q. What would you consider your state’s greatest accomplishment during your tenure?
A. Personally, this is one of those jobs that make you feel like you never do enough or do it well enough. But, we (not me) have accomplished much –
Annual Awards Banquet at State Singles
New website with lots of great information
Automating the tournament entry/management process
Improved newsletter mailed 4 times/year
Attracted new board members and players
Junior Team Illinois

Q. What makes Illinois racquetball special?
A. We have a unique mix of people. We have several board members and tournament directors who have been active in racquetball for over 25 years. People are passionate.....and opinionated. There are different ideas on how to get where we are going, but we all want to go the same place.

ISRA State Board Members: Nearly 25 active volunteers comprise the ISRA Board including zone representatives, auxiliary board members and a governing board.

Congratulations to the North Dakota Racquetball Association – they are the first to win the Membership Growth Challenge! They had .02585% of their state population who were USA Racquetball members at the end of November. Thank you for all your hard work and support. Which state will take this award next year? Ask your State Association how you can help them win the 2006 Membership Growth Challenge.

Q: I AM CONFUSED ABOUT WHAT THE PROPER FOOTWORK IS FOR HITTING A SHOT. I HEAR SO MANY DIFFERENT VIEWPOINTS AND I WANT TO KNOW THE PROPER FOOTWORK FROM THE MASTER HERSELF.

A: Footwork is probably the most critical part of hitting a ball during a rally, on the serve, on the return of serve or anytime for that matter. Your goal is to always try and be square to the sidewall when hitting a ball to maximize on power, gain consistency and obtain accuracy. By squaring up to the sidewall, you have a greater chance of using your legs and hips which is the source of power. This power is then transferred through your upper body via your torso to your shoulder, to your arm, to your wrist, to the racquet and then eventually to the ball.

So let's take a look:
A. During a rally and on the return of serve, when you are down and ready, you are square to the front wall. In order to get square to the side wall, you should do the following:

1. Down and ready (facing front wall)
2. Legs should be wider than shoulder width apart and knees slightly bent
3. Use the crossover step
   a. Pivot on the foot the side of the court the ball is on which opens the hips
   b. Push off with the opposite foot, crossover so you are now square to the sidewall
4. From this position, you can move to the ball and when you get there, you are ready to step into the ball and hit the ball properly

B. During a serve, you are already square to the sidewall so all you have to do is step into your serve (toward the front wall). You accomplish this by using a one step or a two step motion depending on you level of play or what serve you are going to hit:

1. Low hard serve - one or two step motion
2. Soft high serve - one step motion

The footwork in racquetball is no different than any other sport... Let's compare:

<table>
<tr>
<th>Racquetball</th>
<th>Other Sports</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1) Server in racquetball - steps into serve</td>
<td>1) Batter in baseball - steps into pitch</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2) Return of serve - square to front wall, then takes a crossover step before hitting so you are square to the sidewall</td>
<td>2) Infielder or outfielder in baseball - square to home plate, then takes a crossover step before throwing the ball</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3) Hitting a ball in a rally (same as above)</td>
<td>3) Quarterback in football - square to defensive line, then drops back and then does a crossover step before throwing the ball</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4) Hitting a ball in a rally (same as above)</td>
<td>4) A tennis player - square to the net, then a crossover step before hitting the ball</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The reason I always stress proper footwork is because the ball is usually traveling in excess of over 100mph in ONLY a 20x40x20 box, which gives you much less time to react to the ball than in any other sport we mentioned.

Remember, proper footwork will help lead to the following:

1. More power which gives your opponent less time to react
2. More accuracy which allows you to put the ball where you want which should be as far away from your opponent as possible to force them to hit on the run creating more mistakes
3. More consistency which will give your opponent less set ups

The end result is you will be a better racquetball player... who wouldn't want that?

Good Luck!
Hope to see you at one of my camps for live personal instruction or the next best thing buy our video if you can't make a camp at this time. Go to www.FranDavisRacquetball.com for details on both the video and camps.
Whose Responsibility Is It???

What are you doing for RACQUETBALL?
What are you doing for your sport? So many of you who read this magazine are players and may think the only responsibility you have to the sport is to play it! Not true! If you as players brought in one new player to the sport in a year, we would double our number! Wouldn’t it be great if instead of 5 million players in the US, we had 10 million. All it takes is each person who plays to be responsible for bringing in just 1 other person to the game they love!!!

So many players may think their only responsibility is to play the game.

NOT TRUE!

Now if that was all there was too it, we could stop this article now but we know that not all 5 million people love the sport as much as we do and that not all 5 million players are reading this article so...

How can we involve more people in Racquetball?

The Player...

Invite your non-playing friends in for a game with you.

Now, please, do not just take them on the court and annihilate them. That is a sure way of having them never come back! Give them the basics, run them around the court so they get a great workout and see what it is that keeps you coming back time and time again. When you take a new person on the court, you don’t have to give them all the rules, just the basics. Rally, rally, rally. Doesn’t even matter if the ball bounces more than once before they hit it. You need to remember back to when you first got hooked on the game. Why did you and how did you?

Now if your club IS on the ball. They should offer some Potential Member specials so that the new people you are introducing to the game will come back again and again and again. Create times during the promotion that people can come in and try the game out before joining. Have them bring another friend too! Let them know you will provide all the equipment and the instruction. Besides an inexpensive joining fee, offer a Free Racquet to the first 50 Memberships that join on this promotion. Check with the Racquet Manufacturers for closeouts on last years models. Or let them know what you are doing and they will work with you. At Cascade Athletic Clubs we offer this promotion once a year and usually purchase racquets for $15 to $20 per racquet.

It is important to note (though many of my past articles have said the same) that if Clubs do not have programs to keep their existing Members involved at all levels of play, then having your existing Members help promote the sport may be useless. So Clubs, do your job. Hire a person to be responsible for your Members and your Programs. You won’t be sorry!!!

If you have any ideas for upcoming articles for ‘Get with the Program’, please e-mail me at: Connie can be reached at: Connie.Martin@CascadeAthleticClubs.com
In the last issue, I talked about “Watching the Ball” an extremely important factor in winning matches. Today I want to cover “Proper Center Court Position” another extremely important factor in winning matches... actually a MUST. No matter whether you are serving and going to relocate or you are in the middle of the rally, you want to get back into good center court position so you don’t get beat by the pass or you don’t get jammed. By being in “proper center court position” you are in the best position possible for the next shot.

Let’s define “Proper Center Court Position” as being in the right place at the right time. Therefore, you are in position to get a majority of the balls. Since a majority of the balls (80-90% of all balls) wind up in the back half of the court the middle of the back half of the court behind the dotted line is center court (see pictures). This is the most advantageous position to be in because approximately 70% of all balls that have been hit will pass through that box or if you are in the box with one step and a reach, you can get to most balls and return them.

At this point, let’s take a closer look at where you should position yourself depending on where the ball is and where your opponent is hitting the ball from. Keep “The 30% Principle” in mind at all times when you are determining where you should position yourself. 30% of all balls can be killed from the dotted line. A kill shot is defined as a shot that hits 6” and lower on the front wall and bounces twice before the short line. The farther back a person goes in the court and shoots the ball, the less likely they will be able to effectively kill the ball so their percentages go down drastically.

With this in mind let’s look at all the positions I have given you:

TRICK 1

Sudsy (offense) 35 feet and back
Fran (defense) is down and ready watching the ball and positioning herself in the back half of the center court box. Keeping the 30% principle in mind, she is protecting against the pass and giving up the kill and pinch.

TRICK 2

Sudsy (offense) moves up to 30 feet
Fran (defense) is down and ready, watching the ball and moves up ever so slightly still being in the back half of the center court box. Keeping the 30% principle in mind, she is protecting against the pass and giving up the kill and pinch.

TRICK 3

Sudsy (offense) at short line (off to the right)
Fran (defense) is down and ready, watching the ball and moves up toward the dotted line in the front half of the center court box. Fran is still protecting against the pass, but because I am closer to the target (front wall), my odds of effectively killing the ball goes up.

TRICK 4

Sudsy (offense) is at the front wall
Fran (defense) is down and ready, watching the ball and moves up to the dotted line, no further. She is protecting against the pass and giving up the kill and pinch. She already made one mistake and put me 2 feet from the front wall. If she moved up beyond the dotted line, she would be making a 2nd mistake and VERY vulnerable to the pass, so she stays back.
A RULE OF THUMB

If your opponent (offense) is shooting the ball and is 30 feet up and you want to be behind them.

*If your opponent (offense) is shooting the ball and is 30 feet back you want to be somewhere in front of them:
   a) if they are shooting from one side or the other side you are in the middle.
   b) if they are shooting from the middle you want to be off to the left or right of them with one foot in the center court box.

I can't stress enough how important center court position really is...VERY...it's critical to winning or losing a match. This was one area I really zeroed in on when I am played the guys on tour...where were they standing and very often where were they not standing?

Believe it or not this is my basic strategy...put the ball as far away from my opponent as possible to force them to hit on the run. If I hit the ball where they are NOT I force them to hit on the run creating mistakes for me to capitalize on. You too can use this very simplistic strategy because if it works for me it WILL work for you. Give it a try and let me know how it works.

Please, I invite you to attend one of the camps with Fran Davis to learn this first hand or in the meantime pick up one of our videos, “Building Your Racquetball Dream House” with Fran, Jason and myself.... and check out Center Court (chapter 6) for more details. Go to www.FranDavisRacquetball.com.
HEAD's top pros agree, the new Liquidmetal IGS racquets are so powerful they should be illegal.

With Liquidmetal technology now in seven key locations and the addition of our revolutionary new Inner Grommet System (IGS) the new Liquidmetal IGS Series of racquets offer up to 21½%* more power with every swing. Check out the new Liquidmetal IGS 165, 175 and 185.

Racquetball Magazine recently had the chance to talk to Mark Griffin, the driving force behind the scenes in the great plain city of Sioux Falls South Dakota.

Mark, tell us a little about how you got involved in the sport? - Well I began in college at ASU playing outdoors. Due to the heat there we played from 10pm to midnight when it was cooler. The university did not have the great complex that they do now. A few of my friends and myself would get together and played three or four times a week for the workout and fun.

After returning from college did you keep playing? - Yes I did. I came home from college and began playing at the Sioux Falls YMCA. I also began working in the family business for Lewis Drugs, which my father started in 1942. I would go to the club and play for the stress release. Racquetball is very popular in Sioux Falls and I got behind the Lewis Drug Pro-Am the year I came home from school 28 years ago. I felt it would be a great way to help to promote racquetball in the area.

Tell us a little more about the event- Well like I mentioned, this is the twenty eighth year we will be hosting the event at the Sioux Falls YMCA and with some great support from the community it has been a great success. Local racquetball enthusiast Troy Stallings has helped tremendously in running, organizing and getting some of the IRT pro's to come in every year. In the past we have had Hall of Fame players Ruben Gonzalez and Andy Roberts play and now of course the new generation of stars like Jack Huczek, Mike Guidry and Rocky Carson. We do our best to make sure the players are taken care of at the event not only by helping out the professionals with a large prize money purse and other perks but the amateur players are treated to full meals throughout the weekend, great raffle prizes such as DVD players, televisions and other great prizes. The event is one where everyone not only gets to witness some great racquetball but leaves knowing they had a great time at a great event and look forward to coming back again the next year. Mike Guidry mentioned to me that the best time to come to Sioux Falls is in February for this event. I really enjoy being involved in the event and will do so for many years to come.

What is your impression of the newer IRT players that have come to the event in recent years compared to those of the past? - Ruben, Andy and Guidry stand out the most as I still receive phone calls from them. They played some great ball for the fans here. The new players such as Rocky and Jack are great. They have spent time with the juniors doing clinics and just hanging out talking with the players. I am very impressed with them, also with their level of play. It is great for the local players here to get a chance to see the best play. It has also helped cultivate a few good players from here like Troy and John Goth. We hope to get Kane to come here this year. His wife has played here in the past.

What level player would you describe yourself as? - I am a solid "A" player. I play a lot of doubles now. I am in the 50-age bracket and I am happy to say I have been fairly injury free. I still play three times a week at the YMCA.

How would you describe the state of the game now? - Well I know what I read and get from the Internet. It seems very stable. Here in Sioux Falls I know we are making an effort to bring the younger generation into the game. Troy is working hard at the YMCA to make it happen here and do our part.

How do you envision the sport in the future? - I would hope for faster growth of the sport and from all indications it seems to be on track. I believe developing a star or face to put in the spotlight and getting behind him or her would be a way to generate more interest for the sport. All other major sports have a face or superstar that has moved the sport to the next level. I think of what Magic Johnson and Michael Jordan did for basketball. Also getting the younger generation involved and giving the sport a try.

Steve Strandemo was inducted into USA Racquetball's Hall of Fame in 2005. Recognized as one, if not the best instructor during the 70's and 80's, Steve completed and published three instructional books on racquetball, organized the first instructors certification camp and was recognized as the master of fundamentals and strategy.

As a player Steve was ranked in the top 10 for 10 consecutive years during an era dominated by the Hall of Fame inductees such as Hogan, Yellen, Peck, and Hilecher. Steve was the first instructor to truly utilize video tape as an analysis and teaching tool and many of his theories and principles of teaching provide the basics for many of today's instructors.

Let me categorize two groups of players that fit into this category. The first group has hundreds of players around the world enjoying our great sport who are totally unaware they're illegally standing in their opponent's way. This problem exists because they've never been exposed to good information, and therefore lack racquetball knowledge and understanding. Hopefully through these articles, the posters we've developed, and the instructional DVD's, we'll have a great chance to reach many of these players and make their playing experience more enjoyable. I believe any player who goes through a good instructional experience and learns how to play fundamentally sound, will probably never leave this sport because they know racquetball is the best 60 minute workout they can get! Having helped racquetball players since the mid 70's I also believe that people are good by nature and want to play correctly, and when shown these playing guidelines, will adjust their positioning and be a credit to the game.

As for the second group of players (trust me) I won't make a lot of friends in this group. There is a small minority of players who stand in their opponent's hitting lanes on purpose because it gives them an unfair advantage on defense and they know exactly what they're doing and they have no problem bending the rules in order to help themselves win. These players are subtle, often appearing to be moving out of their opponent's way in good rallies. But as their opponent is getting ready to hit, they always seem to be in the cross-court passing lane; forcing their opponent to hit either down the line or attempt a difficult pinch. (See poster foldout) By standing in the cross-court passing lane, they eliminate having to cover the opposite back corner and that makes life a lot easier for them on defense. I wish these players would be penalized with an avoidable hinder (penalty hinder) each and every time they make this move.

Unfortunately there is another situation that is a little more blatant in nature and occurs when one of their shots rebound off the sidewall into the middle of the back court and they make little or no attempt to move to the side of the court to give their opponent his three offensive shots. Examples of which are errant low drives, a hard Z that comes off the sidewall too much, lob serves that glance off the sidewall too far, or an offensive shot in the rally that kicks off the sidewall too much. These players block the cross-court pass, they block a straight shot to the front wall, and they will even block the down-the-line shot. Basically they take all the appropriate offensive shots away from the hitter, except for the pinch. (See poster foldout) This type of player often forces his considerate opponent to go to the ceiling when

Strandemo on Racquetball

I'd like to thank Racquetball Magazine and USA Racquetball for giving me the opportunity to write this instructional article along with our new two-page explanation of USA Racquetball rules. Hopefully, with our illustrative photos and racquetball advice, you'll be able to benefit from this material and improve your game.

In this article and future articles, I'm going to come at you straightforward with racquetball information that I guarantee will make you a better player and a lot tougher to beat!

Topics will be the powerful two step serving motion used with low drive and hard Z serves; aggressive relocation after these serves; the proper position and mentality used to return these difficult serves; playing off your opponent's left-up shots; open stance hitting in Zone 2-3 (Zone 2 is the 5ft. area between the server's short line and the dotted line. Zone 3 is the 5ft. area behind the dotted line) when you have a quick reaction shot; and understanding all the different lob serves. Concepts you must understand if you're going to improve your racquetball skills.

Before we get into the actual instruction, we should have a discussion about a problem that has been with racquetball for the last 30+ years and it probably isn’t going away soon. The problem is the lack of understanding of the rules concerning hinders, avoidable hinders (penalty hinders), hitting lanes and screen serves. This combination of problems has destroyed tons of matches, lots of friendships, and is continuing to occur every day all over the world. We all need to strive for a higher standard of understanding and intelligence about racquetball, and need to hold to that standard as we try to elevate our racquetball game. Playing within correct rules is the only true way to gain respect for our sport. Racquetball cannot grow in this country and around the world when you go to club after club and see players standing in each other's way, as they're attempting to hit their offensive shots (down-the-line, cross-court pass or pinch). When this occurs, offensive player have to significantly compromise their shot selection to avoid hitting their opponents; and often times end up hitting ceiling balls, tough angled pinches, and a lot of down-the-line shots. Many players unfortunately will never feel the true synergy of good racquetball until they become schooled on how to play, and he given the proper hitting lanes to hit their shots. When they acquire good information, players can then enjoy the excitement of strategically moving their opponent around the court to score points, win games, and even matches.
be should have great offensive shots due to his opponent's errant shot. These should all be called avoidable hinders (penalty hinders). Please understand those individuals in the second group are a very small percentage of all racquetball players, but it is a group that really takes the fun out of the game for a lot of other players. And for all the rest of you who are successful and who are constantly watching your opponent hit, always giving the open hitting lanes to your opponent, keep doing what you're doing...I'm proud of you!

Now For the Instruction

Let's get started with the actual instruction and make you a better player. The best foundation to start building this package is with a strong serving game, consisting of both low drive and hard Z serves, along with the understanding of how to return these difficult serves. For the next sixty days I want you to develop a strong serving game and a good return-of-serve mentality. In the next issue of Racquetball Magazine we'll start to show you how these two hard serves complement each other, and build on the concept of solid relocation, and the server playing off his opponent's left-up returns.

Because a lot of good information is being conveyed, it's sometimes hard for readers to get the feeling of how these concepts play out on the court. So with this article and all future articles I will be making a 20-25 minute DVD/video of the instructional material. The DVD/video accompanying this article will show you all the mechanics of the low drive serve, hard Z serve, and the return of these serves. I really want you to improve! If there happens to be any ideas discussed in this article that aren't 100% clear, I want to demonstrate them on the court so it makes it easier for you to understand and incorporate into your game.

The Low Drive Serve

The objective of the low drive serve is to serve the ball so it will take 2 bounces before it reaches the back wall. To accomplish that you need the 1st bounce to be in Zone 2. The best way to make this happen is by making very low ball contact approximately 5 to 6 inches off the floor. From the service box in Zone 1 hit an upward arc into the front wall approximately 13 to 14 inches off the floor. That will create another upward arc off the front wall that will make your serve land in Zone 2.

When this happens, there's a very high probability your low drive serve will not come off the back wall - intended result! To get the most power into your low drive serve you should use good forehand technique by bending and extending your arm, a forceful wrist snap, and a good follow-through combined with an efficient two-step serving motion. Next relocate as hard and quickly as you can to Zone 2-3. As you are shuffling back, watch your opponent move to the back corner, and from his body language determine if he is going low with his return (down the line, cross-court or pinch) or high (ceiling ball). If the return is low, get back into Zone 2-3 and get ready for his left-up shot; if the return is high, quickly retreat to the back of the court and evaluate the effectiveness of his ceiling ball return.

The Return of Serve (Low Drive)

To return a low drive serve your starting position should be 3 feet off the back wall using a backhand grip if you change your grip.

The Hard Z Serve

The characteristics of the hard Z are exactly the same as the low drive. Same low ball contact in the service box, same two-step serving motion; only here you will angle the ball up more so it hits that front wall 4 ft. to 5 feet off the floor. The ball direction of the hard Z is front wall, sidewall, 1st bounce in Zone 3, kicks into the opposite sidewall and hopefully dies as it angles near the back wall. Turning the correct way on hard Z relocation is crucially important for safety and efficiency. Make sure, you're turning away from the ball, protecting the front of your body, and looking over your shoulder to see if your opponent is going low or high with their return. Use the same return-of-serve mentality we discussed with the low drive serve. On the DVD you will be able to see the exact ball direction, how to turn on your relocation and how the serve reacts in the back corners. A great visual tool for you to use along with this article from Racquetball Magazine.

The Return of Serve (Hard Z)
Always, always, always let a hard Z bounce before you return it. After the 1st bounce in Zone 3, you can choose to return it either offensively or defensively before it hits the sidewall; offensively or defensively after the sidewall, or even after it hits both the sidewall and back wall and kicks out for a set-up. In this situation make sure you go low with this return and do not go back to the ceiling.

There are so many defensive and offensive options in the back corners with the hard Z serve return that (while the illustrated photos in this article are a good start) I think the best way to thoroughly convey this information to you will be on the DVD.

Wrap Up
So that completes your first instructional project. For the next 60 days please work hard on your low drive serve, concentrating on getting the first bounce in Zone 2 and then relocating. Next learn the hard Z with its ball direction and correct relocation, and lastly work on the return of these serves, looking for an offensive return first and a defensive return second. And do review this article from time to time.

Please get this homework done so you’re ready for the next issue. I hope you’ll have the opportunity to get the DVD and be able to watch this instructional video. Remember, we’re going to build your game together and you’re going to get a lot tougher to beat. I’m looking forward to our next lesson, thank you for your time, and Good Luck!

The 2005-2006 Eastern Collegiate Racquetball Conference (ECRC) Season continued on December 2nd-4th in Albany, NY with the second meet of the year as 122 student-athletes from 19 schools were represented and competed with an atmosphere that only college racquetball can bring. Penn State University had a tremendous showing, sweeping the Mens, Womens and Overall team titles. Clarkson University, winners of the first meet, was right behind them in second place in the Mens and Overall divisions. The newly formed Binghamton University Womens squad, led by Womens Singles overall individual winner, Christina Vandling, took the second place spot in the Womens Team division. The top 5 teams were as follows:

Mens Team:
1.) Penn State – 1356 pts.
2.) Clarkson – 1310 pts.
3.) RPI – 1010.5 pts.
4.) Bryant – 832 pts.
5.) WNEC – 717.5

Womens Team:
1.) Penn State – 927 pts.
2.) Binghamton – 502 pts.
3.) WNEC – 481 pts.
4.) Bryant – 458.5 pts.
5.) Clarkson – 380 pts.

Overall Team:
1.) Penn State – 2358 pts.
2.) Clarkson – 1780 pts.
3.) Bryant College – 1320.5 pts.
4.) RPI – 1244 pts.
5.) WNEC – 1228.5 pts.

In individual competition, Chris Brown from RPI secured his second consecutive ECRC individual title, narrowly defeating Marc Moccia, Umass-Amherst, in a tiebreaker. In the Womens bracket, newcomer Christina Vandling, Binghamton University, continued her dominance this year with a straight game victory over Lauren LiGreci from Clarkson University. Other individual winners were Frank Tringale (Clarkson) in the Mens 2, Brandon Layo (Penn State) in Mens 3, Chris Capello (Penn State) in Mens 4 and Liz Eldridge (WNEC) in the Womens 2 division.

The parity in this league is unlike anything you’ll see out there in the racquetball community. Utilizing the Olympic Format draws, there were eighteen matches that came down to 11-10, eleven of them coming on Sunday in crucial matches. That doesn’t include the dozens and dozens of 11-9 or 11-8 matches that come in. With over 550 matches run over the weekend, hundreds of gallons of Gatorade, 60 feet of sandwiches eaten, 200 meatball subs and 40 large pizza’s devoured over the weekend, we still found time to run a squash tournament in the middle of it all, won by Racquetworld’s own Pat Bernardo. College racquetball here in the Northeast truly is unlike any events that you could ever attend, and it’s due to the class, sportsmanship, hard play, and most importantly the friendships that these incredible athletes bring to the tournament each and every weekend. Thank you goes out as always to Racquetworld and Ektelon for your continued support of the ECRC, Collegiate Racquetball and racquetball in general. We couldn’t do it without you. Thank you to the Court Club in Albany, NY for bringing us back time and time again. It’s a first class facility and a very large supporter of racquetball. And of course the biggest thanks goes to all the athletes that participated and gave your heart and soul to compete on the court with the class and character that we should all emulate. It’s definitely the way racquetball was intended to be played. We’ll see you all again at Meet #3 February 3rd-5th hosted by Penn State University.

If you would like to see the complete team standings or individual results from any of the ECRC events, including the important yearly standings, or just gain a little more knowledge on the conference and how you can participate, please visit our website at www.ecrcracquetball.org or contact Shane Wood, Director, at racquetballchamp@hotmail.com or via cell at 508-479-6597.

The difference between GOOD or GREAT is not a big bone.
its a thousand little ones.
At first glance you will notice how different the rankings look, and many players may question their placement within the current list. Please remember the current list is only an initial starting point, and is only as accurate as the amount of information included. As we include more information the rankings will of course achieve greater accuracy. You may also notice the difference in age group listings. The new system is based upon skill levels of the players involved, thus making the division they compete in irrelevant except for comparison purposes. Each division includes everyone that qualifies for that division and thus will be much more accurate for seeding purposes. As example, although Ruben Gonzales does not play any 50 plus events he may still be seeded one in 50 plus because of his victories against higher ranked open players.

States can still extract all state players from the national list to review the rankings of those own players. In the future, when more data is entered we will also create Open, A, B, etc. division breaks within the current list and include juniors.

For further clarification of typical ranking questions please go to ranking information under rankings at www.usasacquetball.com

Reality or Pipe Dream?

Guarded optimism lives within the racquetball community surrounding the exciting new Reno project and speculation that racquetball may be involved. Now, add a Las Vegas project to the hype. Are these facilities really going to happen? Will our game be involved? Let’s examine Vegas and the massive opportunity at hand.

On the surface, Las Vegas makes a lot of sense for a special sports facility. The city, an excellent vacation and convention destination, ranks as the fastest-growing city in North America. Obviously, Vegas has a lot to offer anyone and sporting events have always quickened the pulse of this no-sleep joint. The city is the unofficial home of Professional Boxing and the NBA was sharp enough to see the city as a “can’t lose” sports host last year. They were not disappointed.

What does any of this have to do with racquetball? Well, there have been ongoing conversations between the upper echelon of USA Racquetball and the Las Vegas Sports Group. The Vegas Group, Ultimate Sports Entertainment, Inc., wants to build “the most extraordinary sports and entertainment resort in the World.” The resort would be the home of sports events from boxing, to swimming, to (you guessed it) racquetball!

The three billion dollar project calls for 5,500 rooms plus over 50 sports facilities included. Add sports memorabilia, state of the art training facilities, one million square feet of convention space, sports product exhibitions, etc. and you start to have a pretty impressive venture.

Ultimate Sports Entertainment, Inc. has assembled a team of experts in their fields and is moving forward rapidly. The tentative completion date is sometime in 2008. Further speculation hints that land has been purchased and a major announcement could happen sometime in the near future.

Pessimists, naysayers and general negatories unite and tells us all why this project won’t happen. Half full optimists – you have more to talk about and deservedly so. You have land purchases, pre-hype, pre-launch excitement, and the simple undeniable fact that the project makes since. Think about the possibilities for racquetball. While you’re dreaming and hoping, visit ultimatesportsresort.com...suddenly the dreams have some backbone.
